VOTE ON SMALL'S VETO WILL BE UP IN HOUSE TUESDAY

To Pass Veto Bill Must Get 102 Votes—Both Sides Are Confident of Victory in the Final Test—Democrats Will Not Take Any Part as An Organization in the Fight

(By The Associated Press)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 5.—Strength of the contending Republican factions, the one behind Governor Small, the other led by Attorney General Brundage, will probably be shown in the house of representatives here Tuesday when the bill appropriation $997,240 to the attorney general's office is taken up and an attempt made to pass it over the governor's veto.

To pass over the veto the bill must get 102 votes. It mustered that number on its first trip thru the house, the voting being 102 to 29. But this time many Republican votes will be cast against it, whereas in March most of the opposition came from the Democrats. Only 51 votes are needed by the governor to sustain the veto.

Members of the minority party may hold the balance of power, provided the attorney general has forty friends among the Republicans. There are 87 Republicans, 64 Democrats and one Independent, Representative Benson, of Ottawa, who usually votes with the Republicans.

As a result of political conferences in Chicago yesterday and today, virtually all of the Democrats are expected to vote to override the veto. Representative Igoe, Chicago, chief aid to Minority Leader Devine, is known to favor the full $997,240 appropriation, and it is the prodection he will secure many Democratic votes for it.

Representative Roe, Democrat, Vandalia, fought the bill at every turn during its house career, proposing several amendments reducing the items voted this week, but was unsuccessful. He will be a strong supporter of the governor's veto during the fight Tuesday.

Though making every effort for votes, the governor's forces are confident of success. House members favorable to him are predicting a decisive victory and veteran political observers assert that if the Brundage appropriation passes Tuesday, their calculations will be upset. Persons in close touch with the attorney general's office believe the bill will receive house approval again.

No little discomfort for some representatives has been caused by the governor's veto. Those who are neutral as between the chief executive and the attorney general are worried about having to go on record one way or the other. One Republican member from northern Illinois remarked when he learned of the veto:

"And now we've got to step in and mix in that fuss."

Althought the Brundage bill is paramount in legislative interest next week there will be much other noteworthy business transacted. The corporating marketing bill now is on second reading in the house, and it should come up Wednesday. The Meents $100,000,00 road bond bill will be pushed along in the senate and may be disposed of Thursday. Its passage generally is conceded.

Among bills awaiting final disposal in the senate are the Dailey bills granting equal rights to women and regulating trade, and house bills providing for repeal of the election commission act and creating a mining investgaton committee.

House third reading bills include the Soderstrom one-day rest-in-seven measure, backed by the Actors' Equity League, and the Schnackenberg bill requiring applicants for marriage licenses to give ten days' notice to county clerks.

PAYMENT OF BONUS IN ILLINOIS WILL BEGIN ON JULY 1ST

Announcement Made After Conference with Bankers

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 5.—Payment of the $55,000,000 state bonus to Illinois soldiers and sailors of the World war will begin July 1, it was announced today after a conference between Governor Len Small and Chicago bankers.

The initial sale of the bonus bonds will be a block of $1[illegible],000,000 which probably will be offered publicly next month by a Chicago banking syndicate. The start in paying the bonus will be made with proceeds of this sale.

The principal item of discussion at today's conference was the rate of interest to be fixed on the bonds. While this has not been settled and probably will not be until the first block of bonds are ready for sale, it is likely the rate will be 4½ per cent.

"We have discussed rates of 4¼ per cent and 4½ per cent for the bonds and the rate probably will be one or the other," Governor Small said after the conference. "We hope it will be 4¼ per cent, but that will be settled when we are ready to sell the first block of bonds."

Chicago bankers expressed the belief that the rate would have to be 4½ per cent to have the bonds sell at par. It was pointed out that the state of Iowa has been unable to market its bonus bonds on an interest rate of 4 per cent.

CAN NOW MEASURE SOUND AND LIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

PASADENA, Cal., May 5.—A new instrument for measuring sound and light wave lengths by means of photographic exposure, as brief as one, one hundred billionth of a second has been constructed at Mount Wilson observatory, here, for astronomical use. Dr. J. A. Anderson of the observatory told the convention of the California institute of technology of the device today.

Dr. Anderson also told of a recently discovered method of measuring the velocity of sound in metallic vapors at very high temperatures. These discoveries are regarded as invaluable in the studies of the sun's rays, he said. An ordinary high speed camera operates with an exposure of one thousandth of a second, while the new exposure on the recently developed instrument is approximately ten millionth of a second.

Mrs. Ellsworth Burnett of Girardstown is in the city spending a few days at the home of her father, Samuel Davenport.

BRING BABY TO LIFE WITH ADRENALIN

Dallas, Texas, May 5.—A baby born without sign of life was brought to life by the use of Adrenalin hydrochloride at Baylor hospital here last night, Doctors Warren E. Massey, and J. B. Smoot announced today.

"The child was dead when born last night," Dr. Smoot said. "Heart sound was extinct and there was no evidence of respiration, Dr. Massey prepared and injected the drug into the heart muscles. After the injection we continued other means of producing respiration and in a short time the child began to breathe."

The baby was reported in good health this morning by hospital attendants.

TWO INQUIRIES ARE BEING MADE IN MOUNT CASE

State's Attorney and Coroner Both Conducting Probes

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 5.—Parallel inquiries by the state's attorney's office and the coroner today into the death of Leighton Mount, Northwestern University student whose skeleton was found Monday beneath a lake pier in Evanston, proceeded today with the questioning of more students and university officials.

The question of whether Mount killed himself or whether his death was the accidental result of hazing activities following a class rush in which he participated on the night he disappeared in September, 1921, remained undetermined.

Walter Dill Scott, president, and George P. Merrick, counsel for the University, visited Oscar Wolff, coroner, during the day with the university records sought in connection with the inquiry and pledged their full co-operation to clear up the mystery.

At the same time it was revealed that Mount's farewell message to Doris Fuchs, with whom he was on friendly terms prior to his disappearance, did not hint at suicide as the girl testified yesterday, acoerding to the authorities.

"Young people talk of suicide or running away," he wrote in substance the day before he vanished, it was said. "However, that is not my idea of how to work out one's career."

The girl turned the letter over to Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mount, parents of the dead youth. They told the coroner that they had given it to T. J. Falts. He refused to give it up. Other developments during the day were:

1. A student testified that J. Allen Mills, a freshman who left college shortly after the disappearance of Mount, and cannot be found, was carrying a pistol on the nigth of the class rush.

2. Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, halted the investigation by telegraphing from West Baden to his chief assistant, Edgar A. Jonas, forbidding the issuance of any more subpoenas until Monday when he expects to assume personal charge of the case.

The testimony about Mills and the revolver was given by Baron Kroohn, a 1921 sophomore. Kroohn said he was told on the night of the class rush that Mills was carrying the weapon in spite of protests by other students. An effort is being made to find Mills who has been reported both in Chicago and in Wyoming.

Mills was a fraternity brother of Arthur Persinger, whom freshmen tied to a pier the afternoon of the class rush. The authorities have expressed the belief that Mount may have been seized and hazed in retaliation for the indignity on Persinger.

FRENCH ACTRESS HAS BIG TIME IN SOUTHWEST

NEW YORK, May 5. — Mona Goudre, famous French actress of the Odeon Theatre, Paris, sailed for home today with some scintillating recollections of the southwest.

Brightest of all was the memory of her appearance in the oil town of Mexia, Texas, where, she declared, the women were so heavily loaded with diamonds that they detracted from the stage, and the oil men and cattle men laughed at her French jokes "because, I suppose, they thought them naughty."

In Kansas City in bone dry Kansas, she declared, she had found "magnificent" cocktails flowing freely.

"What amazed me most," she concluded, "was a member of the Rotary club, who introduced me as a 'regular fellow.' I didn't know what he meant at first, but I found he meant I was a good mixer."

Find New Witness In House of David Probe

(By The Associated Press)

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., May 5.—A small girl of 14 years, wearing a red sailor hat with ribbons streaming down the back, a sweater and a knee length skirt sat in the home of Sheriff George C. Bridgeman until late tonight, surrounded by state investigators of the House of David.

Miss Pearl Flake, the girl, was found and subpoenaed today by Frenk Keift, Berrien county deputy and Chicago detectives in a Chicago lodging house, where she was living with her mother, Mrs. Claudia Flake, also a former member of the House of David. The girl and her mother arrived here on an afternoon train the mother being taken to a hotel upon arrival and the girl being taken to Sheriff Bridgeman's home where she was given a room after the questioning.

Assistant Attorney General Quay announced tonight after the questioning had been completed that the state had "accumulated a lot more salt for the cooking of Benjamin Purnell's goose," but refused to go into details. It is understood that the girl will be one of the first witnesses called when the one-man grand jury investigation of the House of David swings into the third week of its session.

The discovery of Miss Flake and her mother was achieved thru information obtained from the Chicago board of education. Several weeks ago Pearl applied for papers, required of all girls under 16 years of age, who wish to obtain employment in factories. When asked her address the girl gave the number of the lodging house where she and her mother were living and a moment later added that she had just come from the House of David. She said that she wanted to work so she could help support her mother. Today Keift and the detectives went to the lodging house and Mrs. Flake, when shown a subpoena directed the officers to a nearby factory where Pearl was found at work. According to Keift, he overheard the mother while packing a suitcase in the living room, preparatory to accompanying the girl to St. Joseph, tell her "stick by Benjamin whatever you do."

Mrs. Flake refused to state why she had left the House of David. When Fred Armstrong, captain of the state police attempted to question her in the hotel lobby, she answered by saying, "it's none of your business."

TWO KILLED EIGHT MISSING IN MINE BLAST IN COLORADO

Eight Also Believed to Have Perished from Gas

(By The Associated Press)

BULLETIN.

Trinidad, Colo., May 5.—At 11:25 tonight the third body was recovered from the slope of the Southwestern mine, in which an explosion occurred today. Seven men remain in the mine as missing. It was announced at the mine office that the remaining bodies may not be found tonight, owing to the great amount of wreckage.

Trinidad, Colo., May 5.—Two men were killed and eight are missing as a result of an explosion in the north slope of the slope of the Southwestern mine of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company near Aguilar this afternoon. Ten miners were entombed by the explosion believed to have been caused by a set off of gas. The north slope was badly wrecked.

Bodies taken out by the rescue crews late today were identified as two Greeks, John Konistakis, and John Soupaginis.

Reports from the mine said the belief is strengthened by conditions encountered by the rescue crews that all in the mine have perished.

Several of the rescuers were overcome by gas.

HENRY FORD IS RICHEST MAN IN WORLD IS BELIEF

Wall street Believes He Has Passed John D. Rockefeller

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 5. — The "Street" was generally agreed today that Henry Ford is the richest man in the world, following publication yesterday of the Ford Motor Company's statement of its financial condition as of Feb. 8, 1923, showing assets of $536,351,939. Actual cash on hand was $159,605,687.

The figures were revealed in a statement filed with the Massachusetts commissioner of corporations in Boston.

Twenty years ago the Ford Motor Co., was established with a capital stock of about $100,000, a factory floor space of .28 acre and an average number of employes of 311. The first year 1700 cars were built. Last April 7, it was reported the company had built more than six million cars since its organization

Last February 28, the statement shows the profit and loss surplus was $359,777,598. Wall street estimated net profits approximated $119,000,000, equivalent to more than $690 a share on the 172,465 shares of $100 par value capital stock outstanding, which Henry Ford and his son Edsel own outright.

Wall street further estimated that the Ford fortune totals something between $600,000,000 and $750,000,000.

Ford is said to replace John D. Rockefeller as the world's wealth leader, the Rockefeller fortune being depleted to $300,000,000 by the oil man's various gifts, estimated in round numbers at one billion.

Andrew Carnegie's wealth once totalled an estimated $300,000,000, the Marshall Field estate climbed to $120,000,000 and the John Jacob Astor estate was $70,000,000.

MAYOR DEVER HALTS BI PARTISAN MOVE IN G. O. P. BATTLE

Says No Part Will be Taken in Brundage-Small Fight

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 5.—Mayor William E. Dever, political observers said last night halted a proposed bi-partisan project to support Edward J. Brundage, leader of a republican faction and attorney general of Illinois in his demand for the full appropriation for his office. Gov. Small's veto yesterday cut the amount to less than half.

The democratic organization behind him, Mayor Dever was reported to have stated, will not be delivered to either side in the seeming controversy.

George E. Brennan, accredited as one of the leaders of the democratic party in Illinois, carried that information to Attorney General Brundage. No organized effort will be made by the democratic leaders, it was reported, Mr. Brundage was told, to influence democratic members of the legislature who may favor the full appropriation for the attorney general's office.

After talking with Attorney General Brundage, Mr. Brennan said:

"The plan to swing the democratic organization to either side in this controversy is out of the question. It should not have been suggested in the first place. As I view the matter personally, it is a subject for each member of the legislature to settle for himself."

Attorney General Brundage confirmed the attitude of the democratic leaders as expressed by Mr. Brennan.

"Mr. Brennan told me frankly," he said "that the democratic party as a party could not be expected to take a hand in the controversy. I did ask him to lend a hand if he could, not for me personally, but in the interest of law enforcement.

While Attorney General Brundage was lining up supporters from Cook county members of the legislature, Mayor Dever said:

"It is the height of folly for the democratic organization to take side as an organization in this fght. I am not interested in the factions of battles in either the republican or democratic party."

INSURANCE FIGHT COMES BEFORE THE SENATE COMMITTEE

Experts Tell of Doings of State Superintendents

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 5.—The fight between insurance companies and brokers referred to as "experts" came before the Illinois Senate Insurance Committee yesterday, it was disclosed today. Representatives of the experts charged that insurance superintendents of most states were all allied to prevent policy holders from cashing policies and replacing them.

The charges were made by H. M. Gladstone, attorney for some of the brokers who have an injunction case now pending in the Appellate court, and J. C. Punch, and J. W. Shera, insurance counsellors were the witnesses.

As the result of the testimony, Senator John D. Turnbaugh of Mount Carroll, declared that if one-tenth of the testimony was true there should be a thorough investigation of the whole life insurance field.

In the pending suit, Thomas J. Houston, insurance superintendent of Illinois, Darby A. Day, head of the Chicago Underwriters' Association and a number of other insurance agents were temporarily enjoined from preventing the experts from counseling policy holders.

Two bills pending before the legislature, Mr. Gladstone charged, would make difficult, if not impossible, profitable replacement of policies and would give Mr. Houston power to revoke licenses of companies doing business in Illinois.

FEDERAL PROHIBITION OFFICERS IN NEW YORK BEGIN DRAFTING PLANS

Faced With Necessity of Drying up the State Alone if Governor Smith Signs the Mullan-Gage Bill—Washington Says That There Will be no Let Down Because of Action

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 5.—Federal prohibition enforcement officials in New York, facing the necessity of drying up the state unaided if Governor Smith affixes the expected gubernatorial signature to the bill repealing the Mullan-Gage state enforcement act, began drafting plans today for spreading their attenuated lined over the territory which has been largely covered for them by state and municipal forces.

Palmer Canfield, enforcement director for New York state, said he had about 200 men at his command to cover the entire state, including the Canadian border, now largely patrolled against rum runners by state police. He expected assistance from Washington for a great increase in his force, but declared he expected the police to go on aiding in prohibition enforcement as far as they were able.

"While the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law is a serious blow to enforcement, because it will make it appear that New York is seceding from the union, the police nevertheless are compelled, when they see a violation of the law to make arrests and turn their prisoners over to the federal authorities," he declared.

At police headquarters, however, it was said that tentative plans already were being made to return to patrol duty nearly one thousand policemen who have spent most of their time hunting violators of the state enforcement law.

Will Be No Let Down

Washington, May 5.—Altho Prohibition Commissioner Haynes declared today there would be no let-down in prohibition enforcement in New York state, the general view here was that the action of the New York state legislature in repealing the state enforcement code would make far more difficult the task of federal forces.

Mr. Haynes' view was the action of the legislature would mean only that the federal government would have to provide agencies to make up the loss of "whatever co-operation may have been provided by the state." He said sufficient funds were available to increase the field force, but indicated that a survey to determine upon the extent of the increases would await an actual withdrawal of the state forces on the signing of the repeal act by Governor Smith.

Representative Graham, Republican, Illinois, who is a candidate for the majority floor leadership in the next house, said in a formal statement that the action of the New York legislature would do more "to bring into contempt the constitution of the United States than in any other way they could have proceeded."

"By this repeal," he added, "the state has said to every bootlegger and violator of the federal prohibition laws that in the state of New York he may ply his nefarious business in safety, and with the implied acquiescense of the highest state officer and the courts of the state."

SHRAPNEL SHELL INJURES R. R. MEN

(By The Associated Press)

DECATUR, Ill., May 5.— The great world war is not yet over for Tom Casey, engineer and Ed Mochell, switchman for the Wabash at Granite City. The two men are in the Wabash employes' hospital here as a result of the explosion of a shrapnel shell in a load of junk at Granite City, Friday. The car load of junk was next to Casey's engine on another track when the shell was seen. It was inspected and then thrown on the junk again, as it was supposed to be a "dud." The end of the car was torn out, the two men hurt, and the fireman knocked down. When seven other shells were found in the junk, the car was set off on another track and marked "dangerous."

WALLACE REPLIES TO STATEMENT OF J. S. WANNAMAKER

Says Head of Cotton Association Made Misstatements

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Intimations that the department of agriculture is in any manner attempting to interfere with the normal functioning of the law of supply and demand are without justification, Secretary Wallace said today in a letter to J. S. Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton association.

Mr. Wallace charged Mr. Wannamaker with having circulated "gross misstatements" and unwarranted intimations in connection with the recent reports of the department on farmers intentions to plant.

His letter was in reply to a telegram sent by Mr. Wannamaker to President Harding.

"In your telegram to the President," the letter said, 'you say that there is a nation-wide discontent and that there is nation-wide antagonism being voiced by American farmers, etc., etc., to what appears to be a government policy in attempting to deflate market values of staple farm crops. The government has no such policy, and so far as I know, you are the only man who has suggested that it did have.

The secretary declared to be untrue a statement in Mr. Wannamaker's circular letter which said, "In a committee of eighteen representatives of large business corporations, bankers and economists of the eastern and western states were assembled in Washington for the purpose of preparing and issuing an official estimate on the 'intentions' of farmers to plant certain acreages in staple farm products in 1923, and outline the livestock situation."

The committee in question, he added, has nothing to do with preparing or issuing the report on intentions of the farmers.

Explaining that the special report on intentions to plant which were prepared in the same secret manner as all other government crop reports, the secretary said that after it was made public, copies were given to the special committee on agricultural outlook and that statements that this committee had anything whatsoever to do with the report prior to its release, or any part in making it, "are utterly without foundation."

A THOUGHT

But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God.—St. John 3:21.

A good man, thru obscurest aspirations,
Has still an instinct of the one true way. —Goethe.

Since according to the Indiana senator, who is well versed in such things, it takes 200 years of training and education to produce real diplomats, the United States should certainly hurry and make a beginning of this task.

Becaue one New York assemblyman stopped at a barber shop while enroute to the capital and missed a roll call the measure purposing the dry enforcement law failed of enactment. Perhaps that was a close shave in more ways than one.

The dream of years—many years—was realized Saturday afternoon when the new stretch of pavement on Morton avenue was opened connecting the hard road with the Hardin avenue pavement. It is a fact that within five minutes after this new bit of pavement was opened to traffic that 15 cars entered the city by that route. This density of travel is but an indication of the value there is in having the main appoaches to Jacksonville in good condition.

Each of us has a certain personal set of scales for weighing the information that comes to us. That is, we single out a certain angle of the situation that responds to our controlling interests.

This is why people who see an event often think the newspaper has the "account of it" balled up. The newspaper prints the facts, as they actually happened, as the reporter saw them. Not having exactly the same viewpoint as some readers, the reporter may overlook the incidents that impressed those readers most. And the readers, in turn, who were "on the job" failed to notice much of what actually happened, what the reporter saw.

The successful doing of business always depends largely on smoothness in personal relationships, and such smoothness is possible only through the exercise of tact according to Forbes Magazine.

This applies equally to the relations between employer and employee as to the relations between the seller of goods and his prospective customers. The tactful employer profits incalculably from the employee good-will which his tact creates. The tactful employee is early marked for promotion, and is certain to rise in the business world more rapidly than any fellow-worker who, however able, is deficient in tact.

The tactless man's great need is to become more altruistic and less egoistic. He can, for that matter, utilize his egoism as an aid to altruism and the gaining of tact, by cultivating the habit of imaginatively putting himself in the place of people with whom he has business dealings.

"Most of you do not own land solely for profit," says the Prairie Farmer. The editor of that paper continues this somewhat unusual view of farm land values. "You know that you could invest your money in something else at a greater profit. But you are proud to be known as a landowner. You feel that there is something solid and substantial about land. You like to go out now and then and look at it and know that it is yours. You are proud to be the owner of a farm.

"Then why not cater to that pride a little? If you are proud to own a farm, you will be prouder still to own a productive, well-improved farm, operated by a competent, satisfied tenant. Why not fix up that farm? Why not paint the building? Why not tear down the shacks and replace them with up-to-date structures? Why not build you tenant a comfortable, modern home? Most of you can afford it. Why not do it?

A rum detecting apparatus promises to revolutionize the work of prohibition agents in securing invulnerable evidence against violators of the eighteenth amendment has been invented by Dr. Ernst Vuilleumeir, professor of chemistry at Dickinson, college, Carlisle, Pa. By means of this apparatus, it is possible to tell the percentage of alcohol in a sample liquid in fifteen minutes. It has the added advantage of being so compact that is can be carried in a handbag.

Major Adams, superintendent of the Pennsylvania state constabulary who witnessed the first demonstration has put his official okeh on the invention by ordering the Pennsylvania state policemen equipped with the apparatus at once, to aid Governor Pinchot in his campaign against bootleggers.

Dr. Vuilleumier has named his invention "The Dickinson Alchometer" after Dickinson college in whose laboratories the invention was conceived and perfected. He is the son of Charles Vuilleumier, Swiss consul at Philadalphia and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania of Berne, Switzerland.

In the course of a public address at a dinner given in his honor out on the Pacific coast, Major General J. A. Lejune, commander in chief of the U. S. marines, gave expression to this practical thought:

"It is our duty to see that hostile foot never leaves an imprint on American soil. If America wishes to sleep peacefully it may sleep, but first is must look to the business of making its house strong. Not until then will this sleep be peaceful."

General Lejune, one of the most amiable and gentlest of men in time of peace, is known as one of the most effective of America's "first class fighting men" in time of war. He commanded the famous 2nd division during its St. Mihiel, Champagne and Meuse-Argonne offensives, the most bitterly fought contest of the world war. A fearless fighter in war, a kind and considerate but firm commander in time of peace, he enjoys the confidence of his subordinate officers and the admiration and affection of all the men under his leadership.

A native American and trained in American institutions, he is typical of American thought on the subject of preparedness. He wants the nation, as he wants its individual citizens, to be able to sleep peacefully, from a sense of security, when they choose to sleep at all.

REINDEER MEAT.
NEA.

Will a large part of the meat supply of our descendants come from Alaska and Northern Canada—meat of the reindeer and caribou? Stefanson, the arctic explorer, thinks so.

Our government is getting to a similar idea. It predicts in a bulletin that reindeer meat will soon have a large sale and be available in many parts of America.

In Alaska alone there are more than 100 herds of reindeer, running wild, varying in size from 400 to 8,000 head a herd. Plenty of free grazing land for them up there. Still more in Canada's Yukon and the northwest territories stretching eastward to Hudson bay.

Reindeer and caribou ranching is springing up as a new industry growing swiftly.

The first reindeer were imported into Alaska about forty years ago by the far sighted Rev. Dr. Sheldon Jackson.

It took him twenty years to import 1,280 head. From these sprang the great herds of today.

Wilfred Grenfell, the author and medical missionary, is introducing reindeer into Labrador. She writes us that a reindeer weighs more than two sheep, and that $600,000 worth of reindeer meat will reach Chicago this year from Nome, Alaska.

Some time ago the chief of the U. S. Biological survey told a congressional committee that in twenty years Alaska will be exporting 1,250,000 reindeer carcasses a year.

The purpose in building up this industry, of course, is to provide cheaper meat. But transportation is a big obstacle. For instance, the reindeer that will be delivered in Chicago for $607,000 this year will sell for $370,000 when they leave Nome. The difference, $230,000 is transportation cost.

Another handicap is that reindeer meat has a gamey flavor, like venison, which few people like. At least, it's a cultivated taste.

Manchester, May 5.—Edward Alred, a well known resident of Manchester, was taken to Our Savior's hospital in Jacksonville Saturday afternoon and is in a serious condition there. Mr. Alred sustained a fall more than a week ago from an elevated sidewalk in the east part of town.

He was unconscious for a time but seemingly recovered from the effects of the fall. However, several days ago his condition became such as to cause his relatives grave concern. Several physicians who were consulted in his case found that there was an injury to the spine. Mr. Alred gradually grew worse and it was decided to remove him to the hospital in Jacksonville.

Mrs. Alred who was in Chicago visiting relatives at the time of the accident, returned home Wednesday.

The deceased was born and reared in Manchester and spent practically all of his life here, having gone to Pekin several years since to live with his daughter.

He was preceded in death by his wife and five children, one son, Charles Arnold, passing away last December. The surviving children are John Arnold, residing west of town; Otis Arnold of Manchester and Mrs. Raymond Worker of Pekin.

The School for the Deaf baseball team lost to the Blue Mound high school team yesterday afternoon at Blue Mound, the final score being 5 to 4.

Carlson was not up to his usual form and was hit freely, but, due to brilliant fielding on the part of the Jacksonville boys, the score was held down. The game was hard fought thruout, as the above score will readily show.

Although Coach Burns feels keenly the loss of the game, he is very highly pleased with the fielding abilities shown, and for the fighting spirit of his men under difficulties.

A. L. TAYLOR GOES TO KANKAKEE

Succeeds E. J. Howells There as Bell Phone Company Manager — Former Jacksonville Man Honored by Kankakee Business Men.

Jacksonville people will be interested in knowing that A. L. Taylor has been appointed district manager for the Illinois-Bell Telephone Co., at Kankakee, succeeding E. J. Howells, formerly of this city, who has been transferred to Decatur.

Mr. Taylor will have charge of the Kankakee exchange with its 4500 subscribers and 6 other exchanges in territory adjacent to Kankakee. Mr. Taylor, who is spending a few days in Jacksonville making preparations for his romoval to Kankakee is already in charge of the Kankakee office.

In recent months Mr. Taylor has been representing the Bell Co. traveling from the Chicago office. He is a thoroly equipped telephone manager and his record in Quincy, Jacksonville and in various offices of the Bell Co. has given him this reputation.

It is something of a coincidence that Mr. Taylor succeeded Mr. Howells in Jacksonville when the latter was transferred to Kankakee and now is again his successor.

Kankakee papers refer to Mr. Howells as an efficient, capable business man who has been especially popular in Kankakee. The esteem in which this former Jacksonville resident was held is indicated in these paragraphs from the Kankakee Republican:

Tribute to Mr. Howells.

"Members of the Kankakee Rotary Club, as principals and leaders of the commercial, civic and church activities gathered in one big group at the Kankakee Country club at noon today for the farewell banquet in honor of E. J. Howells, manager of the Bell telephone, who has been promoted to manager at Decatur, Ill., district and who is leaving Kankakee in the next few days.

"Seldom has a Kankakee man, going to a new field of labor, been awarded a high tribute as that paid to Mr. Howells today. Besides the members of the Rotary club, representing all lines of business, the banquet was attended by directors of the Chamber of Commerce, city and county officials, ministers and prominent men in other activities."

A silver tea set was given Mr. and Mrs. Howells by the Rotary club of which he has been president for the past two years. Handsome tokens were also given by employes of the telephone company and by the vestry of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Mr. Taylor is therefore called upon to fill an important place in the business and social life of Kankakee and those who know him well are very sure that he is entirely capable of measuring up to the Kankakee needs. Both he and Mrs. Taylor will be missed from Jacksonville.

The scene showing the burning, flooded mine is one of the most vivid ever filmed. There are fights, humor, pathos, and real life strongly and truthfully pictured. ## NEW LIFE GIVEN TO HUNT FOR AURORA MAN

AURORA, Ill., May 5.—New life tonight was given the hunt for Warren J. Lincoln, missing lawyer-horticulturist believed by the police to have been slain Sunday night while he slept on his truck farm, by the story of William Tallis, a Batavia fisherman who told Sheriff W. E. Orr that he saw two men drive an automobile truck to the edge of an abandoned, water filled stone quarry in the outskirts of that town last Tuesday evening and dump a large bundle into the water where it sank from sight.

The bundle, Tallis said, resembled a man's body wrapped in sacking. The men appeared nervous, one of them going out to the road and looking up and down to see if they were being watched. The automobile bore no license number. The automobile drove rapidly away from the spot in the direction of Aurora.

Sheriff Orr and county marshal Urah of Batavia will begin dragging the quarry early Sunday. The sheriff is also seeking the services of a diver.

GOVERNOR SMALL TO TAKE DAY OFF FOR UNCLE JOE CANNON

Will Attend Birthday Celebration in Danville Monday

(By The Associated Press)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 5.—Pressing affairs of state in Illinois Monday will wait upon the amenities of a friendship existing for more than a quarter of a century between Governor Len Small and "Uncle Joe" Cannon. In declining to make any appointments here for Monday Governor Small announced that he would motor from his home in Kankakee to Danville to be present at the 87th birthday celebration of Mr. Cannon, his old personal and political friend.

The friendship between the governor and the veteran ex-congressman dates back to 28 years ago when John T. Altgeld was governor of Illinois and Grover Cleveland was president. John R. Tanner was chairman of the Illinois state Republican committee in 1894, the year Len Small, then an obscure farmer, first entered active politics by being elected chairman of the Kankakee county Republican committee.

The Illinois legislature had passed a congressional reapportionment bill, taking "Uncle Joe" out of his own district including Champaign and Douglas counties, and extending the district north to include Kankakee, Iroquois and Will counties. Kankakee and Will had one more vote in the convention that Iroquois and Vermillion. Cannon came into Kankakee in the fall of 1894 and made a two weeks' campaign. He was accompanied by the new chairman Len Small. Since that time the close personal and political friendship is said to have existed between the two men.

UMBRELLA MIKE SURRENDERED TO JUDGE EDWARDS

Officers Have Been Searching for Him For the Last Month

WAUKEGAN, Ill., May 5—"Umbrella Mike" Boyle, former labor leader and accused of having been the head of an alleged conspiracy to "fix" the jury which acquitted Governor Len Small, surrendered before Judge Claire Edwards today, after a month's search for him had been futile.

Boyle was taken immediately before the grand jury, and Col A. V. Smith state's attorney of Lake county withdrew a bench warrant which had never been served. Boyle refused to testify and Colonel Smith said he would take the record into court next Saturday with a motion to have Boyle held in contempt.

Witnesses examined during the day were called principally, it was said, to learn the whereabouts of Ben Newmark, listed as deputy state fire marshal, who is also sought in connection with the charges. At the request of Colonel Smith a writ of attachment was issued for Hubert Nertney, said to be a commission broker at the stock yards, who also has been accused.

Judge Robert K. Welch, of Rockford, Illinois, was agreed on as the judge to preside at the trial of J. Bernie Field charged with accepting money and a state job in return for his vote of "not guilty," at the Small trial. Judge Edwards, who presided at the Small trial and is not sitting in the grand jury investigation, expressed approval of the selection.

Boyle has been named as one of two men who engaged Eddie Courtney and Eddie Kaufman, of Chicago, to tamper with the Small jury. He is said to have acted as an agent for influential politicians Colonel Smith said that he would insist that Field, Kaufman and Courtney be tried together. He expressed the hope that the trial would begin June 5 and said he expected to finish the case in three weeks. Counsel said they expected the case would be ready for trial by June 11.

TWELVE GREATEST AMERICAN WOMEN

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5.—Here are the twelve greatest living American women, in the opinion of a special committee of the National League of Women Voters, which was appointed to select such a list:

Jane Addams, humanitarian; Cacilia Beaux, painter; Carrie Chapman Catt, politics; Anna Botsford Comstock, natural history; Minnie Maddern Fiske, stage; Louise Homer, music; Julia Lathrop, child welfare; Florence Rena Sabin, anatomy; M. Carey Thomas, education; Martha Van Renssaller, home economics; Edith Wharton, literary and Anna Jump Cannon, astronomy.

In making public these names, the committe declared it was "humanly impossible" to know who the really greatest women in the country were, and that the selections had been made on the basis of those who had contributed most i ntheir respective fields of endeavor.

Cordele, Ga., May 5—Miss Dannie Blow 16, and her brother Dewey, 23, were killed by lightning at their home near Listonia today. The bolt passed down the chimney of the home and struck the hearth, where the boy was building a fire.

I. W. C. PREPARES FOR MAY DAY FETE

Spring Festival Scheduled for Monday, May 14, on Campus at Illinois Woman's College.

"Persephone's Return," a Greek pageant portraying the origin of spring, is to be presented at Illinois Woman's college Monday afternoon, May 14, at 4:30 o'clock. The pageant will precede the crowning of the May queen and is part of the annual spring festival program.

Miss Eloise Calhoun of Franklin is to be crowned queen of the May and Miss Katherine Yanseck is to impersonate the maid of honor.

The girls who are to take the principal roles in the pageant are given below:

Persephone—Mayza Hall.
Demeter—Beatrice Hasenstab.
Pan—Mildred Brown.
Hermes—Audrey King.
Dawn—Charlotte Rodgers.
Helios—Ruth Webb.

The task of choosing the entire pageant cast is quite a large one and will not be completed for some days to come. Announcement will be made of the complete cast at a later date.

Miss Margaret Hamilton of the I. W. C. faculty has arranged the story of the pageant and planned the various dances, and under her capable management the program promises to make up one of the best May Day fetes in the history of the college.

The story of the pageant is built around an old Greek legend and is given in brief herewith:

Dometic, the Greek Mother Earth, sets out in the morning to bring good crops to the land, leaving her young daughter, Persephone, on the shore in the care of the kindly sea nymphs. Persephone, eager to gather the flowers to make garlands for her water friends, wanders away and is spirited off to the kingdom of death and shadows. When Demetic comes back and finds only the frightened sea nymphs, she goes to search for her child.

The inquiries of the tree and the wood sprites; the fountain and her dancing spirits; Pan, his fairies and none have seen Persephone. Finally she reaches the throne of Helios, the Sun God, who tells her the fate of her daughter and promises to send Hermes, the messenger of the gods, to bring her back to earth. As Hermes appears with her, followed by hissing, gleaming furies, and neglected crops flourish and the flowers spring up.

Seven graces welcome Persephone while the happy peasants dance with joy at the coming of Spring.

At an early hour this morning the men on the dog watch at the office received a S. O. S. call from the aforesaid reporter asking to send a car out for him. As we are not fortunate enough to own a car we were forced to leave him to his fate. We presume he arrived home some time this morning.

White Hall Wins Western Illinois Field Meet

Captures Honors After Hard Fight With Greenfield

Greene County Teams Present Well Balanced Teams—White Hall Was Strong in Field Events and Greenfield in Track—Four Records Broken During Afternoon

WINCHESTER, May 5.—One of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a Western Illinois high school track meet saw White Hall walk off with the honors in the twenty-fourth annual event here this afternoon.

It was a great battle between White Hall and Greenfield for the first honors with the other teams trailing and never serious contenders. In the early part of the events Greenfield, because of her superiority in the track events, took the lead. However, White Hall, especially strong in the field events, then began coming to the front. In three of the field events, White Hall scored a total of 24 points, taking both first and second.

In the final tabulation, White Hall scored 48 points, Greenfield 38, Petersburg 19, Virginia 15, Rushville 14, Waverly 13, Jacksonville 5; Beardstown 2, Ashland and Virginia 1 each. The Jacksonville squad did not make much of a showing, getting one third and three fourth places.

While White Hall was battling Greenfield for honors, the schools also vied in toppling Western Illinois records. Each school lowered two records during the afternoon. Knowland set new marks in the 120 and 220 hurdles while White Hall lowered the pole vault and javelin marks. Williams of White Hall vaulted 11 feet, three inches and Goode hurled the javelin 171 feet, 3 inches.

The hurdle records that were broken were both held by Edward Tomlinson of Jacksonville and were made in 1916. The javelin mark was held by Angier of Beardstown who as a member of the University of Illinois team recently set a new American mark for the event at 203 feet, 9 inches at the Drake relays.

The meet was run off in fine style by the officials in charge and tho it was something new, Winchester did herself proud. Not only were the visitors given royal treatment, but the population of Winchester and the surrounding country turned out en-masse for the occasion. The officials in charge were:

Referee—Lewis Haight.

Track Judges—Lewis Haight, Wm. Balsley, Fred O'Donnell, Earl Nalson, Roland Henry.

Do you know Baseball?

by Billy Evans

Questions.

ONE—If with a runner on first the batsman hits a home run, and the runner on first fails to touch third does that have any effect on the man who hit the home run?

Two—To what distance can the pitcher's mound be elevated

THREE—Has the pitcher the right to discolar the ball

FOUR—If a batsman after misssing the third strike starts for his bench, believing the ball has been caught, and then discovers that the ball has gotten away from the catcher, has he a right to make an attempt to reach first base, or is he out for running out of the line?

FIVE—Explain what is meant by a force-out?

Answers.

ONE—The failure of a preceding runner to touch a base shall in no way affect the status of a succeeding runner who has touched each base in its proper order unless two men are out at one time.

TWO—The pitcher's plate shall not be more than 15 inches higher than the base lines or the home plate.

THREE—The pitcher has no right to discolor the ball. Such an act on his part calls for his immediate removal from the game.

FOUR—The batsman has such unless in running he ran out of line to avoid being touched. When he takes it for granted the ball has been caught, and instead of imediately starting for the base, as he should have, he simply delays his getting there, and makes the distance that much longer.

FIVE—A force-out can only be made when a base runner legally loses the right to the base he occupies by reason of the batsman becoming a base runner, and he is thereby forced to vacate.

NAVY WINS IN SPECTACULAR RACE

Princeton, N. Y., May 5.—The United States Naval Academy's powerful 'varsity crew swept to a spectacular victory today over Princeton and Harvard in the triangular regatta over a course of one and three quarters miles on Lake Carnegie. Navy's time was 10:13.

The midshipmen, rowing with the smoothness and precision that stamped them as worthy successors of the great 1921-22 championship eight of the navy led all the way and finished six lengths ahead of the Tigers, who rowed the course in 10:36 2-5. Harvard, fighting gamely but in vain, was a length and a quarter behind the Orange and Black shell. Harvard's time was 10:42 2-5.

Love of the Game Made Record Possible

Scott Discusses Feat of Playing 1000 Consecutive Games

(By Everett Scott.)
(Star Shortstop New York Americans).

How did I play 1,000 consecutive games?

Well, now that it is all over and I have passed that figure, I don't really know that I can explain, other than by saying that I love to play baseball.

Records have never meant a thing to me. So back on June 20, 1916, when I started my long run I hadn't the slightest idea that I was on the way to a record.

I have always loved to play baseball. I have always tried to give the club with which I am playing my very best efforts. The fun that I get out of playing, plus the desire to serve my employer, to the best of my ability, is responsible for my record for consecutive games.

Perhaps no player on the infield is more liable to injury than the shortstop. In the last eight years I have suffered a number of injuries. Several of them threatened to put me out of the running, but somehow I have always managed to respond to the bell the next day.

Wreck Nearly Spoiled Feat.

A railroad wreck came closer to spoiling my long run than any of the injuries I have suffered. It happened last season. The New York Club jumped west to open at Chicago. I was permitted to stop off at my home, Buffalo, Indiana.

Leaving there the next morning for Chicago, my train was held up by a wreck at Gary, Ind. When it became certain that the train wouldn't get me into Chicago in time for the game I grabbed my grips and sought the aid of a taxi.

The ride of Paul Revere had nothing on my dash from Gary, Ind., to Chicago. It cost me $42.50 in real money. I arived at the park in the sevents inning, finishing the ball game and keeping my record clean.

At the close of the 1920 season with about 650 consecutive games to my credit, I got the bug to reach the 1,000 mark. For the last three years I have been shouting at that figure. I have finally realized my ambition.

I feel that I have set a mark that will stand longer than Babe Ruth's 59 homes 59 home runs or any of the other seemingly impossible feats that have been accomplished in baseball. The chances for a player to be injured are so great that one must be blessed with much good luck to go over 1000 games without being forced out. That's why I will be hard to beat.

Never a husky fellow, I have always done my work with the least possible effort. The style of play has enabled me to conserve my strength, making my record possible.

Will Keep on Playing.

No player is called upon to take more chances than a shortstop. In a great many plays he is called upon to cover a second base and face the spikes of the base runners. In touching runners at second the fielder is always at a decided disadvantage.

While I have suffered a number of minor injuries on close plays where player, ball add infielder all meet at the same time, I have averted many an injury by anticipating the play and getting the start. If a fielder has the ball in his possession ready to touch the runner, he greatly minimizes the chances of injury. Get there first has always been a pet hobby of mine.

Living a clean life, conserving my strength, using my head, plus a desire to always give my best efforts has enabled me to play more than 1000 games without a break. I'm proud of it.

There is no telling where I will stop.

YALE VARSITY WINS BIG BOAT RACE

Derby, Conn., May 5.—A lowly-rated Yale varsity eight, fashioned from green timber in less than a season by the new Blue coach, Ed Leader, and stroked by a man with less than two weeks of training, swept to a brilliant victory over the Housatonic river crews this afternoon, beating Columbia's sturdy eight by three quarters of a boat length and Pennsylvania by two lengths.

Another Yale eight, the freshmen crew, beat the Massachusetts institute of Technology crew over the two mile stretch by ten boat lengths. The blue junior varsity finished third in the Junior event after a magnificent effort. Pennsylvania's men rowed to victory in this event, spurting in the last sixteenth to defeat Columbia by a yard. The Blue shell was half a length behind.

Jack Dempsey Will Meet Gibbons for Title On July 4th

Signs Articles Yesterday for Match—Fifteen Rounds to Referee's Decision—Dempsey Gets $300,000—Gibbons is Taking Gambler's Chance for His Share

CHICAGO, May 5.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, will defend his title against Tom Gibbons, the St. Paul challenger, at Shelby, Montana, a boom town of less than a thousand inhabitants, on the afternoon of next Fourth of July. The match will be fifteen rounds to a referee's decision.

The champion will receive $300,000—the same amount he got for knocking out Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of France, in Jersey City, two years ago, while Gibbons will take a gambler's chance for his share of the receipts, in addition to $2,500 for expenses.

Articles definitely closing the match were signed late today by Jack Kearns, manager of the heavyweight champion, who received a certified check for $100,000 as the first installment of the definite guarantee. The second $100,000 will be handed Kearns June fifteenth, and the final $100,000 will be paid over on July 2nd—48 hours before the champion goes into the ring.

The end to the three days negotiations between Mike Collins of Minneapolis, the matchmaker, and Lloy Molumby, a Great Falls, Mont., lawyer, representing promoters came this evening when orders were received over the long distance telephone authorizing Molumby to pay the first $100,000 over to Kearns. Kearns agreed to post $50,000 forfeit assuring Dempsey's fulfillment of the contract, while Eddie Kane, representing Gibbons, consented to posting a forfeit of $25,000, assuring the challenger's appearance in the ring.

Although Kearns agreed to name another referee, in addition to his first selection, Jimmie Daugherty, of Philadelphia, it seemed certain tonight that Daugherty will be chosen. Kane, who protested to the selection of Daugherty from the start of the negotiations, said he probably would be obliged to accept the Philadelphian or lose the chance of Gibbons' fighting for the championship.

"Both Tom and I are so certain that he can win, that it really wont make much difference who referees so long as he is competent," said Kane. "I don't like to have Daugherty shoved down my throat but I can't see any other way out of it. He's a handicap, a friend of Kearns and Dempsey, but we probably will have to take him. He's a good fellow personally and a great booster for boxing, but I don't think much of him as a referee."

Unless the receipts exceed $300,000, Gibbons will not receive a dime outside of his training expenses and a chance at the championship. According to the articles of agreement Gibbons will receive 50 per cent of all money over $300,000 until the $600,000 mark is reached, after this figure he will receive 25 per cent of all over $600,000 and also 25 per cent of the moving picture rights.

Both boxers agreed to pitch their training camps at Great Falls, Mont., sixty miles from the battle ground, six weeks in advance of their contest. Kearns plans to leave for New York tomorrow to line up sparring partners for the champion, while Kane will attempt to arrange for sparring partners here next week. Kearns said that Dempsey already was in light training and is ready to move on to Montana on a minute's notice. He said the champion would not weigh more than 195 pounds at present and probably will enter the ring at about 187, while Gibbons, Kane said will only be about ten pounds lighter.

Kearns explained his demand for a part of the guarantee by saying that he did not want to go through another fiasco such as resulted at Michigan City, Ind., last summer when the governor of that state refused permission for a match with Bill Brennan last Labor Day.

Collins said that work would be started at once on an arena seating 40,000 persons, with the price of tickets ranging from $20 to $50 each. The receipts can reach $1,500,000 but Collins said he would be satisfied if the gate totalled $750,000. The railroad entering Shelby has arranged to build forty miles of side track on which to park Pullmans for the thousands of fight fans expected to make the trip.

PADDOCK'S ACTION CREATES DELICATE ATHLETIC SITUATION

May Seriously Threaten Standing of Many Athletes

Paris, May 5.—(By The Associated Press)—By participating in the international students' athletic meet being held here under the auspices of the International Confederation of Students and under direct management of the Paris University club, Charles Paddock, the American sprinter, has created a delicate situation in international amateur athletics, threatening seriously the elimination of some of France's and America's best college athletes from next year's Olympic games if a compromise is not reached.

So serious did the French athletic authorities consider the situation today that they requested the American ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, to communicate with the American Amateur Athletic Union which disqualified Paddock so far as the present meet is concerned, in an effort to avoid further trouble. In consequence the ambassador sent a cable message suggesting that the A. A. U., rescind its disqualification order and give Paddock permission to continue in the meet.

When the A. A. U. cabled that participation by the American sprinter would bring his disqualification from future events, the French athletic federation, the A. A. U.'s sister organization in France, notified the authorities of the Paris university club that the meet would not be sanctioned if Paddock was to run, but, however, did not say what action would be taken with regard to the French athletes who participated, but inferentially threatened their disqualification.

Such action, if carried out, would mean the elimination from the Olympic games of more than a hundred French athletes, among them the nation's best amateurs. If the threat of the A. A. U. is executed it would probably mean the elimination of a number of American athletes who are competing abroad this year in contravention of its recommendations that all Americans remain home this year and prepare intensively for the Olympic competition.

Since the expenses of Paddock, who has been the drawing card for the present meet, are being paid by the Paris University club, he placed himself entirely in the club's hands, saying that so far as he is concerned for the national collegiate association and his own college is sufficient.

AMERICAN GOLFERS SHOW GREAT FORM

Deal, England, May 5.—Three of America's amateur golfers displayed superb form in practice today over the seaside links of the royal cinque ports golf club, where on Monday they will begin their battle for the amateur championship of Great Britain.

Fred Wright made a sensational round of 70, his card including a pair of 2s, three 4s and only three 5s. Dr. O. F. Willing, runner-up for the St. George's cup, went around in 74, and Jess Sweetser, the American champion, sweated through two rounds of 77 and 75, under a blazing sun that caused even some of the English players to peel off their coats.

Francis Ouimet, the new holder of the St. George's cup, devoted the day mostly to practice shots over the more difficult parts of the course. Robert Gardner, captain of the American invaders, was off his game and had a high score, as did Max Marston, Harrison Johnston and others.

SPRINGFIELD WON CHARLESTON MEFT

Danville, Ill., May 5.—Springfield high won the Eastern Illinois Field and Track meet at Charleston today with 28 points. Champaign, with 19 points was second and Danville with 18 1-3, third.

The district record of 2:08 was broken by Frank Ham of Hillsboro, in the half mile run in 2:07 and W. Poland, of Olney, broke the javelin throw record of 158 feet, 11½ inches, by hurling the spear 166 feet and 1 inch.

John Lahey of Dixon high was the individual point winner of the meet, finishing first in the 50, 100 and 220 yard dashes, and the high jump and taking second in the running broad jump. White, captain of the Amboy team, furnished strong competition for Lahey.

ILLINOIS COLLEGE DEFEATS CARTHAGE IN DUAL MEET 85-32

Not Much of A Contest After First Few Events

Illinois college defeated Carthage college in a dual meet on Illinois field Saturday afternoon, the final score being 85 to 32.

Coach Omer's men were outclassed in nearly all departments, except the sprints which they won. Schaake was Carthage's best bet and was high point man for the Carthage team. He took the 100 and 220 yard dashes for his team. Carthage also took the hurdle events.

Aside from these events Illinois was superior in every way. Johnson won the 440 yard dash with his teammate Weber second. Mellon and Dale took first and second in the shot put and Mellon first in the discus. It was this kind of procession in the long distance runs and field events, Illinois winning both places.

There was no fast time made and no records broken in the field events. Hatfield and McBride pushed their distance up in the pole vault several inches over that made in the Shurtleff meet and should be hitting around 12 feet by the time of the state meet here in June.

Illinois also won the relay, stepping the distance in 3:35 3-5.

REGARDS AMERICAN LEAGUE AS JINX

Pittsburgh—Manager Bill McKechnie of the Pirates is banking on George Boehler to add much strength to his pitching staff. Thereby hangs an interesting tale.

Boehler was purchased from the Tulsa, Okla., club of the Western association for a fancy figure. With that team Boehler won 38 games last year, a most remarkable record.

The St. Louis Browns of the American league needs pitching as much as any club. The St. Louis Browns had the inside say on Boehler, yet failed to take him, because Boehlar didn't care to pitch in the American league.

Boehler has twice served in the Johnsonian organization. Detroit carried him for about three years hoping he would arrive. After a few years in the minors the St. Louis Browns picked him up, held him for a time, then sent him to Tulsa.

Boehler has a world of stuff, as much as any star in the majors, yet his two trials in the American flivvered because of lack of control.

At the close of the season it was hinted the Browns would take on Boehler once again. Boehler said he would much prefer staying in Tulsa than going to the American leagnue, but he would like a whirl in the Nationals. His wishes were respected.

Boehler felt he was jinxed in the American, believes he can make good in the National. It will be interesting to watch his showing.

MONMOUTH WINS FROM NORTHWESTERN

Monmouth, Ill., May 5.—Monmouth college defeated Northwestern college in a dual track meet here today 93½ to 32½. The locals secured a clean sweep in the low hurdles, broad jump, shot put and discus. The relay was forfeited to Monmouth.

Congdon of Monmouth ran the mile race in 4 minutes, 39 seconds.

Mrs. John Obert was a visitor from Murrayville yesterday.

Illinois U. Swamps Notre Dame in Meet

Champaign, Ill., May 5.—Illinois trackmen vanquished the team from Notre Dame in a dual track meet here today, piling up 92½ points while the visitors from Indiana earned 33½.

The Illini took eleven firsts on a card of 14 events. Notre Dame carried off first honors in the 220 yard low hurdles, the shot put and the discus throw.

Ayres ran true to form for the Illinois team, leading the field by feet in the 100 yard yard dash, which he won in 10 seconds flat. Team mate Angier won the javelin throw with a pitch of 200 feet and 3 inches.

The two mile run was something of a monopoly for the Illinoi, Scott and Marzulo tying for first, and Bohn placing third. Kennedy fought to the last yard for the mile, but Pattison took the event for Illinois by inches.

The summary follows:

100 yard dash—Won by Ayres, Illinois; Evans, Illinois, second; Laydon, Notre Dame, third. Time 10.

DETROIT BALKS ON TRADE WITH CLEVELAND CLUB

(By NEA Service)

DETROIT.—A deal whereby Outfielder Flagstead of the Detroit club was to go to Cleveland seems to have been temporarily halted.

The Cleveland club's outfield is made up almost entirely of left-handed batters. The trade which sent Evans to Washington caused Speaker to lose a right-handed hitter who could be brought into the game against southpaw pitching. Speaker realizes he needs such a man.

With two promising young outfielders like Fothergill and Manusch in reserve, the Detroit club, it is understood, had practically decided to dispose of Flagstead to Cleveland.

The failure of Veach to hit up to his standard, however, seems to have for the time thrown a monkey wrench into the Tigers' baseball machine. Cobb, not caring to add too much strength to the Cleveland club, and also seeking to protect himself against the failure of some of his regulars, may call things off and decide to carry Flagstead.

ILLINI HAPPY OVER NEW GYM

URBANA, Ill.—George Huff director of athletics of the University of Illinois, is still rejoicing over the fact that a new men's gymnasium is assured.

"This is one of the biggest things in the history of physical training at the university," he said. "Everybody knows that our present gym, built in 1902 when there was only 1338 men here, is totally inadequate. The new building will enable us to do much more toward the physical welfare of all of our students. Illinois will have one of the most complete athletic plants in the United States. It is hardly necessary to say how grateful we are to all of our friends in and out of office."

Only tentative plans for a new gymnasium have been drawn so far. One probability is that it will include a basketball floor with accommodations for 10,000 to 15,000 spectators. Nowdays only 5,000 persons may attend basketball, which means that the attendance is practically limited to students. It is believed that in a few years people will travel here to see basketball just the same as football.

It is certain that a larger swimming tank will be constructed as the present pool is far too small. But the old gym is not to be abandoned. It will be retained probably as a Freshman gymnasium. Illinois field is not to be abandoned when the Stadium is completed, but it is to be converted into a baseball field. Varsity games will still be played, but there will be diamonds for intramural sports.

The location of the new gymnasium is not definitely settled. It will probably be near the new Armory which will also make it handy for the Stadium. Just when work will start depends in some measure on prices of material.

SCOTT GIVES THE RULES HE FOLLOWS

By EVERETT SCOTT.
Star Shortstop New York Americans.

To succeed in baseball you must love to play the game. In every sport is it the athlete who is in love with his particular game that does the big things.

The element of courage also enters largely into success. Baseball like every other busines has many obstacles that must be brushed aside. Injuries, illness, batting and fielding slumps, and the breaks of the game, often ruin the player who lacks courage, the willingness and desire to fight back.

A desire to always give your best efforts is essential to success. Never seek an alibi that will make it possible to shirk your duty, rather find a way that will help you to perform it.

Never entertain the thought that it is impossible to do a certain thing, rather feel that there is some manner in which the task can be accomplished.

There is an easy way and a hard way to do everything. Always seek the easiest way, because usually it conserves your strength and eliminates danger of injury to a larger extent.

Don't let some minor happening get your mind off the big idea. While I was playing 1,000 consecutive games I suffered a number of injuries that would have been a sufficient excuse for a day or two of rest had I been so inclined.

Use your head. In creating any record or accomplishing some seemingly impossible task, brain is more essential than brawn. In baseball the thinker has a decided advantage over the player who relies on brute strength, provided their natural ability is anywhere near equal.

Set a goal and then strive to reach it by brushing aside every obstacle that threatens to frustrate your efforts.

SHORTSTOPS LEAD IN MAKING ERRORS

Big league shortstops make more errors during the course of a season's play than do players in any of the other positions. In fact, they make on the average about twice as many as do their various co-workers.

Last year, Emory Rigney of the Detroit Tigers turned in the most miscues in the American League. He made 50, one more than the total hung up by Joe Sewell of the Cleveland Indians. All told, Rigney accepted 755 chances and Sewell 757.

Why do shortstops pile up the most miscues? One reason is that a short fielder will, as a rule, have about half again as many chances in a season as will the third baseman. Along with the second sacker, he is right in the center of the inner defense. There are double plays that must be executed hurriedly. There are thrown balls from the catcher to handle and be put on attempted base stealers.

BASEBALL LID TO BE PRIED OFF TODAY

Indees Will Meet Liberties of Peoria This Afternoon—Tom Doyle Will Hold the Indicator.

The baseball lid comes off this afternoon at 2:45 o'clock when Frank Smith's Indees meet the fast Peoria Liberties at the west side park.

Manager Smith has received a letter from Manager Aiello of the Liberties stating that they will be here about noon all set to take home the bacon if they can. On the other hand members of the Jacksonville team feel that they need all of their supply of pork, and will try to retain the aforesaid bacon.

The Liberties will line up as follows: Saurs, 1b; Goddard, 2b; Rastetter, ss; Molleck, 3b; Argo, lf; McGrane, cf; Ailleo, rf; Ronesburg, or Kamins, c; Clark or Morton p.

The line up and batting order for the Indees will be: Wheeler, 1b; Clark, c; Kohloff, 2b; Maurer, cf; Ruble, rf; Christopher, lf; DeFrates, 3b; Tofhs, ss; Brown or Reams, p. Tom Doyle, the veteran catcher of Murrayville has been engaged as umpire.

From the above it will be seen that there is one new man on the Jacksonville team. Shortstop Tofhs. Burkery decided not to play with the Indees this season, so Manager Smith succeeded in securing the new man, whose home is in Beardstown. He played with the Mt. Sterling team last season and comes with a good reputation.

Mrs. Jesse Vedder was among the Literberry visitors yesterday.

The 100 yard dash was won by Ward of Carthage in 10 2-5 seconds while Tilton, Carthage, high point man, leaped 21 feet, 7 inches in the broad jump, made a mark of 41 feet 10½ inches in the shot put and threw the javelin 149 feet, 2 inches.

BROOKINS, IOWA STAR HURDLER, SETS NEW RECORD

Runs 220 Hurdles in Fast Time of 23 4-10 Seconds

Iowa City, Ia., May 5.—Charles Brookins, star Iowa University hurdler, this afternoon broke the world's 220 yard low hurdle record, when he ran that race in :23 2-10, one fifth of a second faster than the record, held jointly by J. L. Wendell and Robert Simpson. The record was smashed in the dual track meet between Iowa and Northwestern universities.

The former record of 0:23 6-10 seconds, also was held by A. Kanzeline. The latter established his record, May 28, 1908, while Wendell tied it May 31, 1913. Simpson made the distance in 0:23 6-10 on May 27, 1916. Today's record was witnessed by Frank Birch, of Earlham university, who refereed the meet.

Brookins won the 220 low hurdles at the western conference meet here last year and also at the National Collegiate Athletic Association's meet held in Chicago last June.

Iowa won the meet from Northwestern by a wide margin. The Hawkeyes scored 109½ points, while Northwestern scored 25½.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, won the state high school meet held in conjunction with the university events, Fort Madison, Iowa, was second.

LOCAL POST IS MAILING LETTERS

All Legion Posts in State Are to GetLetters Relative to Dedication of the Cottage at State Hospital

Jacksonville American Legion Post No. 279, which is taking an active part in arrangements for the great Patriotic Jubilee to be held here June 15, is mailing the following letter to every Legion Post in Illinois:

Dear Comrades:

This Post will dedicate a group of cottages at the Jacksonville State Hospital, this city, on Friday, June 15, 1923, which are to be used exclusively for the hospitalization of mentally disabled veterans of the World War.

The buildings to be dedicated are the second group of their kind to be constructed and maintained by any state in the United States for the sole purpose of housing our buddies who are so unfortunately disabled They have been erected at a cost of $150,000.00. The other buildings referred to were given to us by our great state also and were dedicated one year ago at the Elgin State Hospital, Elgin, Illinois.

We are promised a battalion of National Guardsmen on this date and will have several thousands of men in uniform in the parade that day The parade will start at 1:00 o'clock sharp. Legionnaires throughout the state willl participate in the parade. The famous 40-8 band of Bloomington has been engaged for the occasion. You all have heard of this famous band which carried off laurels at New Orleans last year. The St. Charles band of the St. Charles School for Boys and three bands from this city have been engaged also. The State Convention of the Spanish-American War Vets will be held here at this time and will fall in line in the parade. This is Legion Day in Illinois—get in the band wagon and be with us.

We have secured speakers of national prominence, including Major General Henry T. Allen, commander Army of Occupation, who has recently returned from overseas; Charles W. (Daddy) Schick, state commander of the Legion; Hon. Len Small governor of Illinois, and C. H. Jenkins, director of Public Welfare.

We want you to come and help our sick buddies celebrate in the dedication of their new home. They have given their all for their country and in recognition of this, the great State of Illinois has seen fit to erect these buildings. Please see that members, and those eligible for membership, are invited and let's show the people of Illinois that we appreciate this recognition as well as the bonus. We must stand by and for each other in putting over a dedication which other states will look upon with envy.

Buddies, do you not hear the call of DUTY? Plenty of free "chow" will be served, beginning at 11:30 a. m., on the hospital grounds in sight of the cottages to be dedicated, to all ex-service men on that date. Why not adopt the slogan "To Jacksonville on June 15th?" Are you coming, and how many?

Please let us hear from you at once, we are,

NO BUORUM AT COMMITTEE MEETING

Part of the executive committee of the Farm Bureau met yesterday, but on account of a lack of a quorum, no business was transacted, except auditing the bills and paying them upon the approval of the committee at its next meeting, which occurs the first Saturday in June.

Some of the directors of the Arenzville Livestock Shippers' association were present at the meeting, and stated that it is the rule with the Cass County Farm Bureau to charge non-members twenty-five cents per hundred more for handling live stock than is charged to members. They are requesting the Morgan county Farm Bureau to take similar action, but there was no action taken account of the lack of a quorum. The members feel, however, that all members should be given a lower rate than non-members.

CHANGE MADE IN LIVERY FIRM

The livery firm of Hale and Evans, located at 321-323 North Main street, has recently undergone a change of management, J. O. Evans disposing of his interests to George E. Hale, the other partner, who will still continue the business.

Mr. Evans and family are spending a month or two in St. Louis, on a combined business and pleasure trip, but his future plans have not yet been announced.

PLENTY OF LABOR IN JACKSONVILLE

According to one large employer of labor in Jacksonville, the supply of labor for any class of work has been plentiful all spring. In the country, however earlier in the season there was a scarcity of farm laborers, the farm bureau at one time having calls listed for eight married men, and about the same amount of single men, with a great many other inquiries for help which was not listed. This condition is evidently relieved at present, as the farm bureau office has not received any late calls for help.

FRANKLIN BOY WINS TWO RACES

John L. Wright of Franklin, who is a freshman at Williamette university at Salem, Oregon, made two pretty runs in the track meet held in Salem last week, against the University of Oregon. The Salem Statesman in reporting the meet says "Wright made two pretty wins in the quarter and in the half, in both of these races. Hayes, a big promising runner, finished third.

Laird, who finished first in the mile ahead of Logan, former champion distance man, was second to Wright by inches in the half mile."

DISCUSSED STATE WOMEN'S LABOR LAW

R. L. Dye as Chief Factory Inspector Gave Explanation of Statute at Richmond Convention.

At the tenth annual convention of the Association of Governmental Labor officials of the U. S. and Canada, held at Richmond, Virginia, recently, R. L. Dye, chief factory inspector of Illinois, made an address explaining the state laws with reference to the employment of women and children.

Mr. Dye said in part:

Mr. President and Members of the Convention:—

I have listened with much interest to the addresses on the method of enforcement of laws protecting Women and Children in Industry, and wish to outline briefly the nature and enforcement of the laws on this question in the State of Illinois.

We have the Women's ten hour law which became effective July 1, 1909, and was amended by an Act which became a law July 1, 1911. This law is to regulate the nature, and limit the hours of employment of women and girls in any mechanical or mercantile enterprise, and includes factories, laundries, hotels, restaurants, telegraph and telephone offices, places of amusement and all public utility business, such as express and transportation companies and common carriers generally, as well as public institutions, incorporated and unincorporated. This law is for the purpose of safeguarding the health of such employes and provides a penalty for the violation thereof.

A close examination of this statute reveals the fact that it is not applicable to real estate business, nor to dentists, doctors and insurance offices, nor to offices of a like kind; neither does it apply to banks, as is held by the opinion of the Attorney General of our state.

Many Deputies at Work.

This law makes it the special duty of the Department of Labor to enforce its provisions and the State Factory Inspector's force of deputies are kept busy inspecting and enforcing an observance of this law, and in prosecuting violations thereof. We give special attention to the employment of women and children in factories and manufacturing plants. As time has passed, we have found that this layw was being well observed in plces of this kind, and we began investigating the mercantile establishments, restaurants, stores, and such places. Here we found the greatest tendency towards violation. The small mercantile establishments where only a few women are employed, whose duties frequently require them to put in more than ten hours of work in one day, are the places of frequent violations.

To those not familiar with the provisions of the Ten Hour Law in Illinois, I wish to say that the women employes in the places mentioned, are suffered to be employed more than ten hours in any one day of 24 hours.

To be able to regulate these hours of employment the law further provides a time book or record shall be kept by the employers showing the hours each woman is employed. This record must show the hour they start work, time off for lunch or rest period and the hour they quit employment. Said record shall be open at all reasonable hours to officials of the Factory Inspection Department for inspection.

We find in endeavoring to enforce this law that there is a tendency on the part of some women employes in oder to get extra pay, to make a false report to an inspector as to the number of hours employed, and the management will also make a false record to cover this violation.

Record of Year.

I will quote from survey made for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, that 75 2.10 per cent of the female employes in Illinois are working eight, and under nine hours per day; 18 9.10 per cent are working nine hours, and under ten hours; and 8 2.10 per cent are working the full ten hours.

The enforcement of laws protecting children in industry is a matter in which I am deeply interested.

The laws of the State of Illinois provide that there shall be no gainful occupation for a minor under 14 years of age when the school in the district in which she or he resides is in session. A minor between 14 and 16 years of age, can be legally employed with the proper employment certificate, excepting in a forbidden employment, which will be explained later.

A minor can be legally employed eight hours per day, and eight hours from 7:00 a. m. until 7:00 p. m., six days per week.

To secure an employment certificate a minor must provide himself with the credentials: A statement from the prospective employer which shows that he will be given employment—the class of work he is expected to do must be shown and the hours he is to be employed.

Illinois carries a long list of occupations in which no minor can be employed under sixteen years of age, designating the hazardous machinery which a minor ating, are where the department cannot operate, or assist in operfinds it is dangerous to their lives or limbs, or where their health may be inured or morals depraved.

It also provides that no female under sixteen years of age shall be employed in any capacity where such employment requires them to remain standing for or during the performance of their work.

The following statistics taken for the last four years, concerning the violations found of the child labor law, will show that childlabor is gradually decreasing while the number of inspections made by the officers of the Department of Labor are increasing: During the period, from July 1, 1918 to June 30, 1919, the following figures will give a better idea of the work done by the Division of Factory Inspectors of Illinois:

Number of inspections under the child labor law, 72,397.

Number of violations under the child labor law, 4,617.

And during the year ending June 30, 1920:

Number of inspections under the child labor law, 74,030.

Number of violations under the child labor law, 3,538.

During the year ending June 30, 1921:

Number of inspections under the child labor law 89,913.

Number of violations under the child labor law, 2,062.

During the year ending June 30, 1922:

Number of inspections under the child labor law, 96,016.

Number of violations under the child labor law, 1,185.

This shows an increase in inspections of 21,619 and a decrease in violations of 3,432.

It is with much satisfaction and considerable pleasure I can state that there are less children employed today in the state of Illinois than there have been in years.

CAIRO MUSEUM WILL KEEP ALL TREASURE FROM PHAROAH TOMB

American Archaeological Mission is Assisting in Packing Treasures of King Tutankhaman's Tomb—Will be Shipped to the Museum at Cairo—Must Stay in Egypt

VALLEY OF THE KINGS, Luxor, Egypt.—Members of the American Archaeological Mission who are assisting the discoverers of King Tutankhamun's tomb in identifying, preservign and packing the amazingly rich collection of antiquities removed from the burial chamber of the Pharaoh, are making rapid progress in their work and hope soon to leave on their annual visits to the United States. They will return to Luxor in the autumn when the tomb is reopened.

Most of the articles taken from the royal mortuary chamber are now ready for shipment to the Cairo museum. There is little chance that any of these mementoes will find their way to American, or indeed British museums. For the Egyptian law prescribes that all objects found in royal tombs shall remain in the country as the property of the Egyptian government. The Britons who discovered the tomb must find their reward in the personal satisfaction of having added so signally to the world's knowledge of life on the Nile 3,350 years ago. They have taken no article from the tomb as their personal property. And they have announced they do not intend to do so.

The American's expert's compensation will be even less. They are aiding their British colleagues without a penny of remuneration. And they have done by far the greater part of the important work of conserving the hundreds of fragile objects found in the comb, it may be said that without their help these articles would have perished.

While Lord Carnarvon lay seriously ill in Cairo, Carter was working night and day to complete the cataloging and packing of the articles before the torrid heat of the Egyptian summer ensues. As a reward for their season's work, he has given his Egyptian laborers and diggers, who number nearly a hundred, small honorariums of money and food. Four of the laborers promptly used the money to purchase additional wives, although they are already married. The slave system still prevails in the interior of Egypt, and the women go to the highest bidders.

WANTED: A SALESMANAGER FOR OUR RAILROADS

Roger W. Babson Would Put Transportation on a Business Basis

The Statistician Sees Better Earnings for the Carriers This Year

Wellesley Hills, Mass., May 4.—Our commercial world is suffering with poor circulation and the case has been critical from time to time during the last six years. Roger W. Babson today issued a statement regarding the railroad situation that furnishes much food for thought.

"Our Commercial Arteries are Congested," says Mr. Babson, "and I am not at all sure that we have not suffered a good many of the pains that come of poor circulation. Rightly or wrongly we have complained of our transportation difficulties and it is evident that the situation has been and still is unsatisfactory in many respects. The commercial shipper, big customer to our railroads, complains that he is being held up for exorbitant freight rates, that he cannot get cars when he needs them, and that he has quit putting in claims for settlement because it costs him more in time and money trying to collect them than the claim is actually worth. If you are looking for adverse criticism on our present system of transportation and its operation, go to the commercial shipper.

"The second customer of our railroads is the farmer, who also is ready with his bill of rights and list of grievances. The railroads have left him without cars and his crops has depreciated heavily on his hands. When the cars did finally arrive freight rates took a large part of his profit. He is sure that there is something wrong with the present system, but he is not quite certain as to the remedy. His experience with government operated railroads does not make him want the experiment repeated, but he thinks perhaps a bill put thru congress which would require the railroads to carry the farmers' produce at a fraction of the present rate would turn the trick.

"Nor are you and I much happier about the present situation. We ride on trains as passengers and complain of the detched service. Our feelings are not soothed any when we examine the column of figures on our pullman berth check and find all regular taxes and sur-taxes listed in order. Our good friends the commercial travellers are particularly incensed just now because the courts have handed down a permanent injunction against the issue of mileage books. The quantity discount that used to be enjoyed by the commercial traveller as a large cash customer of transportation is no more. He must pay the full tariff whether he likes it or not."

It is quite apparent from Mr. Babson's summary that the customers are not happy with things as they are.

"If we look into the transportation business itself," continues the statistician, "we find a dissatisfied group of workers who are spending a large part of their time trying to get what they think will be a satisfactory working basis. They are for government ownership because they believe it would be of direct benefit to them inasmuch as it would probably pay a good high wage and would continue to pay it whether the business done or the service rendered justified it or not. The tax payers could meet the deficit. A selfifish and unsound proposal at best.

"If we turn to the many thousands of small investors scattered thruout the country who own our railroads, we find that they are not very enthusiastic. They will tell you that their money has been tied up in rail securities all these years, that they have received very little in either actual return or in the way of encouragement.

"Now with all these people losing one might suppose that some one would be winning. We turn to the management of our roads and we find them complaining bitterly that they can do nothing because of government regulation. They will tell you their roads are in need of repair but that the government will not allow them to make enough to pay interest on the money that they must borrow to buy the new equipment so they have to worry along with what they have and spend time trying to hold off more adverse legislation. We are, therefore, unanimous in our agreement that something is wrong, but what is to be done about it. Our railroad system cannot break down completely. The circulation of our great commercial world cannot stop or business would die and the people would suffer starvation.

"There seems to be a great deal of misunderstanding among the radical element who are pushing for more restrictions and adverse legislation. You have often heard it said that the government thru its ruling has guaranteed the railroads earnings and that since they may have some watered stock the government has actually guaranteed them earnings on capitalization which really does not exist. As a matter of fact, this is not at all the case. The government has not guaranteed any earnings and all roads are being dealt with upon the present valuation set by the interstate commerce commission and not upon their capitalization either real or ficticious.

"The original ruling put in force the day the railroads went back to private ownership stated that the interstate commerce commission was to set rates that would show a reasonable return on the investment. For the first year that act established 6 per cent as such a return. The interstate commerce commission raised rates from 25 per cent to 40 per cent to show that earnings, but the roads actually earned 2 per cent. Last year the interstate commerce commission established 5¾ per cent as a fair return on valuation and has set its rates to allow such earnings.

"The net earnings for 1922 average 3.82 per cent which is less than savings banks ordinarily pay on deposits. Nor is this 5¾ per cent in any way a guarantee. Once the rates are set it is up to railroads. If by efficient management and economy the road is able to make more than 5¾ per cent all well and good, if it shows a loss under these rates set by the interstate commerce commission there is no recourse.

"The encouraging thing about the whole situation is that three or four of our great railroad systems have come to their senses and are really merchandising their service and giving their attention to their customers. The success of the course they are taking is evidenced by increased traffic and very satisfactory earnings. During the next few months I hope that the rest of our railroads will become converted to this common sense policy and that they will realize that running a railroad is very much like running any other business—'he profits most that serves best!' This is why the keenest investors are now bullish on railroad stock.

"In studying this problem I find that we must go back fifteen years to get at the cause of our present difficulty. In those days the financiers were operating the railroads and on a 'public be damned' policy. Wages were held at too low a level and rates were jacked up for all that the traffic would stand. As conditions became unbearable, it was necessary for the government to step in with its legislation and restrictions. Te railroad management of today is reaping the harvest that was sown by the railroad management of a score of years ago. It is the old law of action-reaction all over again. The general public's habitual complaint of its common carriers is an attitude inherited from these same years and bred of the same mismanagement.

"I am firmly convinced that the present dissatisfaction will continue until a new conception of the railroad has been sold to the American people. The present management is too busy to bother with 'this little shipper' or 'that little shipper,' 'this passenger' or 'that small claim.' It busies itself in Washington playing politics and trying to get itself legislated into the profit column.

"If I had one of these railroad systems on my hands, I would hire a salesmanager for it, a man thoroly competent to sell transportation service to the American public. A man who could merchandise efficient transportation to the shipper, a man who could sell a pleasant, comfortable journey to the traveller. The railroad business is no different from any other business. It must render a service, but it must also sell that service. The department store that took the railroad attitude and said that if you want anything we have, you will have to come and get it, you will have to wait until we get ready to give it to you and if it not satisfactory just try and get a settlement; would be in bankruptcy within sixty days. It is just as unsound for the railroad management to try to pass favorable legislation that they believe will get them into the profit column, as it is for the rail workers to want government ownership because it can pay them a high wage year in and year out whether they earn it or not.

"My salesmanager's second duty would be to organize the employes on our road as a sales and service staff. To get them to look at the public as a prospective market for their service, to get them to realize that each traveller and each shipper is a buyer and that he must be treated accordingly. If the employes of any one railroad in this country today took a pride in their road and earnestly tried to please their customers, that road would make a profit in spite of all the adverse legislation that can be passed and it could pay its employes a higher scale of wage than they will ever be able to maintain by the formula of 'getting all you can and giving as little as you can'."

MONUMENTS FOR HEROES OF PEACE

Just as Fitting as Those for Heroes of War Dental Profession Believes— Erected Memorial For Dr. G. V. Black.

DECATUR, Ill., May 5.—Monuments to the heroes of peace are just as fitting as monuments to the heroes of war in the opinion of the dental profession which has erected in Chicago a memorial in stone to the late Dr. G. V. Black one of the heroes of the profession.

Dentists who will gather here for the annual convention of the Illinois Dental Society, May 8, still draw much of their knowledge and not a little of their inspiration from this warrior against human suffering, according to Dr. Arthur G. Smith of Peoria, secretary of the state society. Dr. Black was "a preeminent example of what can be accomplished thru sheer force of determination and tireless effort," he said.

Some fifty years ago, as a country dentist in Jacksonville, Ill., Dr. Black started a series of scientific investigations into the cause of dental disorders which led to his world wide eminence as a scientific investigator of human ills and diseases as far as pertained to the teeth and their supporting tissues.

Dr. Black removed to Chicago a number of years ago, where he became associated with the Northwestern Dental school. He died August 31, 1915, and a monument to his memory has been erected by the profession at large at the entrance of Lincoln Park in Chicago.

His investigations are considered standard among the profession and it is said they perhaps never will be surpassed in their respective lines.

Dr. Arthur D. Black, a son of Dr. V. G. Black, is now dean of the Northwestern University dental school and is a prominent member of the state society.

NEW PROCESS GIVES ACCURATE PICTURE OF OCEAN BOTTOM

Hydrographic Office of Navy Department Bathymetric Chart Shows Floors of the Ocean in Detail—Information Based on Use of Recently Invented Sonic Finder

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—The precise contour of the Pacific continental shelf from San Francisco Bay to Point Descanso, Mexico, revealed here recently in the publication by the Hydrographic Office of the Navy Department of a bathymetric chart, shows the floor of the ocean in a detailed way which will enable mariners hereafter to determine the position of their craft when landmarks are obstructed from view by climatic conditions.

The information is based on a recent cruise made by the destroyers Hull and Corry, employing the recently invented Sonic finder.

The Sonic finder, a device which determines the depth of the ocean by recording the time required for the sound to reach the bottom and re-echo to the ship, takes a 2,000-foot sounding in less than a minute, supplanting a method which required six hours.

Originally undertaken at the request of the Carnegie Institute to aid in finding earthquake faults in the Pacific Ocean, the results obtained by the charting cruise far exceeded the original purpose, according to Lieutenant Lyman K. Swenson, of the Navy Department.

Geolegists may employ the chart to trace the extension of oil fields, situated on the southern California coast, to submerged prominences in the same vicinity offshore, it is said.

Elaborating the possibilities of such a chart, Lieutenant Swenson said it would enable anthropologists to trace links between continents in order to reach a determination of the manner in which animals migrated to countries which are now separated by oceans.

With the chart as a basis, mariners approaching the California coast would direct their craft, if equipped with the Sonic finder, to any harbor by means of deductions from the finder interpreted by the chart, navy officers said.

The expedition furnished revelations regarding the floor of the ocean off the Pacific coast, which show an egg-shaped, submerged prominence on the bed of the Pacific Ocean at a point thirty miles southwest of the Farrallone Islands, off the Golden Gate entrance of San Francisco Bay.

The chart also shows that if San Francisco Bay and the Pacific Ocean were pumped down 100 fathoms (600 feet), the coast line would be removed thirty miles from the Golden Gate straits and connect with the Farallones.

Off the coast of southern California the ocean is spotted with depresions and contours resembling a land condition of mountains and lakes. This condition obtains in a line with the oil fields off the coast of Santa Barbara county.

JEWETT SIX
PAIGE BUILT

Ample Power-for-Weight Gives Amazing Performance

EASILY the strong man handles the hundred-pound weight which the weaker man can scarcely lift. Just so the underpowered car falters where the full-powered Jewett performs with ease. For it is not power alone that determines performance. It is power for weight that counts.

The Paige-built Jewett has only 11¼ pounds of weight for each cubic inch piston displacement. So Jewett will beat any car up any hill you choose; and accelerate 5 to 25 miles per hour in 7 seconds. These are Jewett's proofs of Jewett's abundant power for its weight. And it is a sturdy, 2805-pound car—not a "light six." Would you like to try a Jewett? Say so.

YANKS and LEGIONAIRES

Forceful Facts Concerning the Interests of Former Soldiers, Sailors and Marines

The wearing of poppies on Memorial Day has been approved by President Harding.

The new insurance issued to veterans of the World War during 1922 totaled $214,580,235.22.

There are six American army officers still on duty with the American Relief Administration in Russia.

John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, was recently made a rear admiral in the naval reserve of Massachusetts.

The U. S. Government now has 298,256 policies of veterans converted insurance of a total value of $1,119,714,005.31.

The War Department has accepted an invitation to co-operate with the Boy Scouts of America in an educational campaign.

The largest armory in the world is in the roux, New York City. It is occupied by the 258th Field Artillery of the National Guard.

Of the 9,496,370 men enrolled for service in the World War by the British Empire, 946,023 were killed and 2,121,906 were wounded.

According to reports a soldier bonus bill will be the first piece of legislation introduced when the Sixty-ninth Congress is convened in December.

The present rate of pay of a private in the United States army is $21 a month. A recruit who enlisted before July 1, 1922, receives the war rate of $30 a month.

A small museum has been dedicated in Schaerbeek, Belgium, in remembrance of eight women who were executed by the Germans during their occupation of Antwerp and Brussels.

The British army is to be reduced to 33,000 officers and men. The personnel involves the disbandment of 24 battalions of infantry, 47 batteries of artillery and five cavalry regiments.

No fewer than 80 rooms at the Henry Ford hospital, in Detroit, are to be placed at the disposal of former service men in Michigan who are in need of medical treatment, and who have not been hospitalized by the Government. No charge will be made.

Among the vocational courses taught by the American Red Cross at the Evergreen School for Blind, an institution near Baltimore, Md., for veterans blinded in the World war, are: Bookbinding, basketry, beekeeping, chair-caning, hammock-making, insurance, music, poultry keeping, rug weaving and woodworking.

According to estimates compiled by the War Department more than 300,000 men will be "under arms" in the United States this summer in various camps undergoing intensive military instruction. The citizen's military training camps will be held from June 25 to September 1, each unit being encamped one month.

Because of the unfavorable financial situation and the shortage of funds for military training the German army maneuvers during the coming summer will be curtailed considerably. The training will not exceed three weeks and the troops will march to the points where the exercises are held instead of being transported by rail.

The Chemical Warfare Service of the army has developed a new gas mask so constructed as to enable the wearer to carry on conversation while using it, thus making it posible for officers to give orders in battle without removing it. This new type of mask is regarded by army experts as the greatest improvement in gas masks since the close of the World War.

Despite the fact that Weaver Hawkins, a British veteran of the World War, cannot lift his arms enough to tip his hat, he is gaining fame in London as an etcher and water-color artist. Hawkins has just sufficient strength in his left hand to hold the brush, and he has to support it with his right hand while painting. As both wrists are rigid, he guides the brush or pencil by swaying his body above the hips. He was wounded 20 times.

The graves of four generations of soldiers are now marked in one cemetery at North Baltimore, Ohio. The body of R. M. Carson, 27, World War veteran, was recently placed near the graves of his three forebears who had fought in American wars. They were his grandfather, Tarlington B. Carson, who served in the Civil War; Samuel Carson, his great-grandfather, who followed the flag in 1812, and Robert Carson, his great-great-grandfather, who fought in the Revolutionary War.

I Still Look 20

after 32 years as a star

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Some of you remember me as a famous stage beauty over 30 years ago. Perhaps in "The Girl I left Behind Me," in "La Belle Helene," in "Wang," or "Florodora."

Many of you see me now, playing young girls' parts, still looking like a girl in her 'teens.

Thousands of women have asked me the secrets of this perennial youth. I have supplied them to many, and they, like I, have kept their girlish charms.

Now for All Women

Now I am persuaded that I owe this information to all womankind. I have obtained by world-wide search the best beauty helps in existence. I know they could bring to millions what they brought to me.

So I have arranged to supply these helps to all who want them—as a duty to my sex. I have had them prepared with the utmost skill, without regard to cost. And they are sold at modest prices, with small regard to profit.

Thus I hope to bring to girls and matrons everywhere the benefits I got. And no woman could ask for more.

My Beautiful Mother

My mother died a girlish beauty at the age of 57. From my earliest years she taught me her secrets. Then together we traveled the beauty-loving world in search of better methods.

We consulted able scientists, beauty specialists and famous beauties everywhere. The search cost us a fortune. But it brought to me and mine, and friends of mine, decades of added youth.

Now those helps are yours if you desire—the best that science knows. And I hope that my results will lead you to enjoy them.

WHITE YOUTH CLAY

I owe my debutante complexion largely to a superclay. Not like the crude and muddy clays so many use today, but a clean, refined clay which dries white. It is based on 20 years of scientific study by the ablest of clay experts.

One who applies it feels the impurities fairly drawn from the skin. All that clogs the skin comes out—the causes of blackheads and blemishes. The blood is brought to the surface. Large pores, lines and wrinkles yield.

Wash it off when it dries, then behold a new complexion, soft and rosy, clear and firm. The results will amaze and delight you. Many women in those 30 minutes seem to drop ten years.

Clay is a beauty essential. No woman looks her best without it, none keeps her youthful bloom. Women who use clay today stand out in any crowd.

Don't use crude and muddy clays, for they will disappoint. Try this supreme creation—the last word in facial clays. It will be a revelation.

Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Clay comes in tubes, at 50c and $1.

FACIAL YOUTH

This is a liquid cleansing cream which I learned about in France. It contains no animal, no vegetable oil, so it cannot assimilate with the skin. It simply cleans to the depths, then departs. All the grime, all that clogs the skin goes with it. I use it night and morning, and whenever else my face needs cleaning.

Compare it with any cleansing cream or any cleansing method. You will be surprised at the extra dirt my Facial Youth removes. And a clean skin is essential to beauty.

The greatest beauty experts in the world now advise this formula for cleansing. But they charge a very high price. Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth sells for 75c per bottle.

YOUTH CREAM

This is my cold cream which I apply at night. Also in daytimes as a powder base. Also after every application of my Youth Clay or Facial Youth.

Youth Cream contains both lemon and strawberry. It is the only cream, I believe, which combines these fruit effects.

It softens, whitens, feeds and firms the skin. After its use I awake in the morning blooming like a girl in her 'teens.

In all my many years of searching, I have never found a cold cream to compare with this. Nor has any woman whom I know. Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth cream costs 60c per jar.

HAIR YOUTH

My hair is my greatest glory. It is thick, silky, lustrous, and grows finer every year. Before I bobbed it it fell below my knees.

I have never had falling hair or dandruff, and never a touch of gray. Nor has any friend who uses my formula. Nor had mother, who found this formula in France. She died at 57 with hair like mine today.

This is due to my hair youth. I apply it daily with an eye-dropper—just enough to dampen the scalp. This method does not muss the hair.

Hair Youth daily combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair's growth. It stimulates and fortilizes the hair roots, from which come hair health and hair color.

Look at my luxuriant hair. Then use what I used to get it. Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair youth costs 50c and $1, with eye dropper.

Every store around you which sells toilet articles, supplies my preparations.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE NOTES

The Jacksonville High School quartet, which won first place in the Western Illinois High School meet held at Winchester Friday evening, May 4th, were prepared for the contest by Madame Colard of the College of Music faculty.

The Belles Lettres society repeated the play, "Asteria," written by Miss Audrey King, for the Domestic Science Round Table Saturday afternoon for their annual picnic. A contribution for Endowment was given the society by the club.

Miss Armetta Meyer of the college office is spending the week end at her home in Beardstown.

The Alumnae and Former Student's Annual Tea in honor of the Seniors and Juniors was given at the home of Mrs. F. H. Rowe, 1152 West State street, Saturday afternoon, April 5th. There were between three and four hundred present, a great many coming from communities around Jacksonville.

Miss Miriam McOmber, alumnae secretary of the college, is in Springfield in the interest of the Alumnae association.

Miss Lucy White of Lafayette, Ill., is spending the week end at the college the guest of Miss Harriet McOmber.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Livingston of Minonk, Ill., and their son Leland of the University of Illinois, will be at the college over the week end, the guests of Miss Lucille Livington, who is a student at the college.

The formal annual dinner in honor of the Senior class was given by Dr. and Mrs. Harker Thursday evening, May 3rd. There were twenty-three Seniors, and the heads of the departments that have Senior students, made a guest list of thirty-six. After a delightful dinner Madame Colard sang a group of songs and Miss Davis gave a very pleasing reading.

The old and new cabinets entertained the advisory committee of the Y. W. C. A. Friday evening in Belles Lettres hall at 8 o'clock. The plans and work of the Young Woman's Christian association were discussed.

The Secretarial Department has put on sale at the college some very attractive little song books, the proceeds to be used towards endowment. The printing was done on the school mimeograph and the binding in blue and gold, including all other work, is entirely their own. It is indeed a clever idea and compares favorably with that of the Dollar Sign which this department put over so successfully at Christmas time.

The Alumnae association are greatly pleased because of the responses to their letters. Already 427 membership dues have been paid for this year. They expect that it will reach over 600 by Commencement. They also report 607 subscriptions to the Alumnae News and Directory and are expecting that this will go up to the thousand mark.

The collection of Miss Knopf's paintings of Colorado which continues to attract visitors will remain on exhibition in the social room for the next week. The public is cordially invited to see these pictures both afternoons and evenings.

The Los Angeles society had their monthly meeting Saturday, April 28th, with election of officers. Mrs. Pheobe Kreider Murray was elected president to succeed Miss Helen Rush and Miss L. Myrtle Sheppard was re-elected secretary. Because of the large amount of writing in connection with the monthly meetings an assistant secretary was elected; Miss Ruth Wright of the class of '23 was chosen for this office. Miss Jennie Lacy, a graduate of the class of '22, was also present. She and Miss Wright did not know of the presence of the other in Los Angeles until their meeting. Miss Lacy will teach next year and Miss Wright will continue her studies.

Work on the play, "The Old Fashioned Girl," which will be given Monday night, May 7th, at 8:15 o'clock in the gymnasium, is progressing rapidly. The two final rehearsals, one Saturday night and Monday afternoon. The prettiest, most graceful and clever girls in school have been chosen to take part. The main features are solo dances, ballets, tableaux and choruses with an original song hit by Audrey King and Mary Lois Clark. The costumes, scenery and lighting effects are brilliant and the music especially pretty. The admission is very small and the proceeds will be for the Endowment fund.

A number of young women took the Red Cross examination for Life Saving in the college pool Friday evening. Those who were successful in passing the tests were Winnifred Potter, Eleanor Dowd, Julia Williamson, Janet Meridith, Helen Bly, Catherine Stephenson, Maurine Gilpin and Beatrice Hasenstab.

The classes in Household Science will give a little playlet entitled "Come Dine With Us" at the meeting of the Mound Woman's club to be held at the home of Mrs. George Tholen on Lafayette avenue. This is a demonstration on table setting and was written by Miss Ruth E. Hills, a former member of the college faculty.

Miss Grace Tickle, director of the Department of Home Economics, will go to Rockford as a delegate from the local club to attend the State Convention of the Business and Professional Woman's club on May 11th and 12th.

Every afternoon the girls go to the back campus where the most splendid practice for May Day is being carried on. Against a natural background, and to the strains of lovely music, the girls are transforming the campus into spots of Grecian beauty.

GAZELLE HOUNDS OF ARABIA LATEST DOG FAD IN ENGLAND

London.—Fashions in dogs change almost as rapidly as women's dresses, and the latest fad amongst dog fanciers here is the Saluki, or gazelle hound, which experts predict will become more popular than the Isatian.

So far about a dozen specimens of the Saluki are in this country, but they have played an important part in the championships dog show at Holland Park.

The Saluki is the grey-hound of the East, his home being among the nomadic tribes of the Arabian deserts. The biggest breeder of Salukis in England is Mrs. Gladys M. Lance, whose husband, Brigadier General Lance, was presented with two of the dogs by an Arab Sheik in Damascus two years ago.

ESPERANTO CONGRESS TO MEET IN AUGUST

Neurnberg, Germany.—Thirty-five different countries are represented by the 2,500 delegates so far registered for the international Esperanto congress which will be held here August 2 to 8. A number of governments, as well as internatonai organizatons, have indcated they will send representatives. A feature of the week's program will be the presentation in Esperanto of Lessing's "Nathan the Wise" and a vocal selecton from Mozart, also in Esperanto.

Keep your directory near your telephone and consult it every time you make a call.

Sometimes a subscriber will guess at a telephone number rather than take the trouble to hunt for the Telephone Directory, which may be mislaid. If the guess is wrong a useless connection is established, a third person is inconvenienced, time is lost and the work must be done all over again.

The Ready Reference List in the Telephone Directory should be corrected each time a new Directory is issued. The use of the Telephone Directory itself is always safer.

The Larger Diamond Grove Memorial

Too many, it would seem, regard death too lightly, or even do not respect its certainty at all. It is just as urgent that one should provide a clean, sanitary, everlasting abode for himself and those dependent on him, as that he provide a shelter, a home for his loved ones on earth, Seldom does a man consider the error he has committed in thus thrusting on his some time lonely loved one, that duty which should have been theirs together, of planning for the long sleep, and so when it occurs that, once a loving wife, is grief stricken and sorrow laden, a widow, that at that time the added burden of choosing is lain upon her to bend her deeper into despair.

How better it is, how relieved to know, that by the better way, they have chosen a place wherein with the passing years itsbeauties will be augmented and its ideal of protection and tender care for they who rest will find expression to the fullest in its enduring guardianship. Even the most orthodox cannot but feel an instinctive belief in the reality of the resurrection and an innate desire to say with the poet:—

"Take them, O Grave, and let them lie
Folded upon thy narrow shelves
As garments by thy soul laid by
And sacred only to ourselves."

HAD MANY TRIALS IN LIFE

Friendship Between Chopin and George Sand That Had Ending in Lovers' Quarrel.

In 1836 Chopin, the famous composer, whose appearance was "one of the most mysterious and poetic in the history of music"—was introduced to the novelist George Sand. She was a theorist and romantic writer who rode horseback astride, at times wore trousers, and even smoked cigars, which used to disgust Chopin to the bottom of his soul. She was not accounted an exceptionally beautiful woman, but she had an arresting personality and almost masculine assertiveness.

"Chopin was fascinated," says Olin Downes, in his "The Lure of Music." "There were times when he turned away in despair; but back he came. In the summer of 1838 he was ill, and George Sand, who was going with her family to the island of Majorca, induced Chopin to accompany them." While there the weather became unusually cold for the island. "It was Chopin who shivered and complained, and George Sand and her son, who built the fires, which smoked. In this place he wrote some of his most dramatic and imaginative compositions."

The friendship of Chopin and George Sand ended in a lovers' quarrel in 1844, and they were bitter enemies to the time of his death in 1849. She "wrote up" Chopin as the Prince Karol in her novel, "Lucrezia Floriana."

IDEA THAT GOT RESULTS

Excursions Inaugurated by St. Paul Real Estate Man Got Result He Had Hoped For.

One of the most daring schemes in real estate advertising, and perhaps the first, in the United States, was the series of December excursions on the Mississippi between 1865 and 1879, conducted by Col Girard Hewit of St. Paul. Colonel Hewit opened a real estate office in St. Paul in 1856. Business did not go well. Immigrants from the old countries heard of the "hyperborean climate" of Minnesota and preferred to stay away from it.

In December, 1865, shortly before Christmas, Colonel Hewit organized a steamship excursion on the Mississippi. Guests were invited with the understanding that every one was to wear a linen "duster" and be equipped with a fan. A section of the Mississippi that was not covered with ice was chosen for the excursion and a spot not far from St. Paul as the picnic ground.

On the appointed day the guests arrived, all protected with heavy woolen sweaters and fur coats underneath the linen dusters, and each armed with a fan in his gloved hands.

Colonel Hewit's trick worked. News of the St. Paul excursion was spread far and wide throughout the East. Colonel Hewit's December excursions on the Mississippi were kept up till 1879, the year of his death.

Greatest Sculptures Ever Executed.

The most important of the famous "Elgin Marbles" are the sculptures of the Parthenon, or temple of Athene Parthenos (the Virgin), the patron goddess of Athens, which stood on the Acropolis. In 1801-3, Thomas Bruce, seventh earl of Elgin, British ambassador to the Porte, collected numerous sculptures at Athens, which he saw being daily destroyed, and in 1816 sold them to the British government. They are now in the "Elgin room" in the British museum. The collection includes sculptures, not only from the Parthenon, but from the Erechtheion and elsewhere, and casts from marbles which were left in situ. These casts, compared with later casts, show that damage to the originals went on after Lord Elgin's time. The sculptures of the Parthenon are both traditionally and generally held to be the greatest sculptures ever executed.

The Padlocked Face.

Fixing the padlock to a human being's mouth was at one time the ecclesiastical punishment for blasphemy in Hungary. In Spain the same offense was punished by tearing out the culprit's tongue. In France the tongue of the blasphemer was branded. In Holland it was pierced by nails. In the museum at Budapest is the relic taken from an ancient grave, of a padlocked human face. The staples are driven through the bones of the face at both sides of the mouth. A visit to some of the many dungeons of Europe and a study of the many instruments of torture once used upon the prisoners, is a convincing proof of the cruelties of past ages.

Anglo-Saxon Umbrella.

Umbrellas were used to keep off the rain by our Anglo-Saxon forefathers long before the Norman Conquest. An old Saxon MS. in the British museum has the accompanying picture of a servant holding an umbrella over his crowned lord. It is stated that when Queen Hatilda reigned for a short troubled time umbrellas were in common use. In Queen Anne's reign the use of the umbrella was confined to two women. Jonas Hanway, who died in 1786, reintroduced the umbrella into England for general use, whence its use spread to Europe and the world over.

Her Fault.

"I don't see why you're always finding fault with your wife. She's good-looking, knows how to cook, is kind to you and the children."

"I know all that, but I can't get along with her. She never knows where my shirt studs are."

Tom the Tripper.

"Tom's a good fellow, but he makes some awful breaks."

"I should say so. If there's a gap in the conversation he is sure to put his foot in it."

Many Peculiar Names For Towns

New Postal Guides Show That United States Has Many Odd Names For Towns—Lots of Them are in Illinois.

CHICAGO—Peculiar names of cities and towns and hamlets are shown in the latest postal guides, and the records of state Boards of Incorporation for municipalities. Even the word "peculiar" has been assigned as the name of a little town in Missouri. When this town was named the residents sent three names to the Post Office Department at Washington to other Missouri towns and to kindly choose some "peculiar" name. The residents did.

One of the most unusual names of a village in this country is that of Gnaw Bone, Md. According to general report, the naming of this village followed a visit of Union soldiers during the Civil War. Some stopped for rations and then started to move on, when one soldier was heard to remark "Wait until I gnaw this bone." The place thereafter became known as Gnaw Bone.

Tradition has it that Eufaula, Okla., owes its name to mother love of an Indian squaw. The story says that the squaw and her white husband were camped on the bank of a stream. Their papoose was learning to walk and went too near the steep bank. The mother ran to it calling in broken English "You falla." The baby fell into the water before the mother could reach it and thereafter the place was called "you falla," but when the town was built it took the longer word of "Eufaula."

The town of Seventysix in Kentucky derives its name from the Seventysix Falls, a beautiful waterfall near by. These were reported to have been so named because they dropped 76 feet. This was more than 100 years ago. The falls now have a 90 foot drop.

If one take the unusual and peculiar names of towns in varioups states of the central west and composes sentences, the majority of the words which would be these names, the result of often humorous, sometimes tragic, and sometimes merely sentences. The following are some examples, the towns being in capital letters One traveller in Minnesota can start out at SUNRISE, see NIMROD after OTTERTAIL and BLACKDUCK, visit BALL CLUB in order TO-GO through ICE make SNOWBALL and take the YELLOW MEDICINE and finish his trip at SUN DOWN.

Farther south in Kentucky a native can GOFORTH from TROUBLESOME CREEK, GRAB SEVEN GUNS and start to LYNCH. After this if he is WISE and SUBTLE and not ORDINARY he can go up DEFEATED CREEK but if he makes FAIRDEALING he will eventually land in CALLABOOSE, near GOODNIGHT and will not be received at WELCOME.

In Illinois, Alma, Anna, Eila and Cora can be visited, while Adeline may be their favorite song. Birds take Bath in Breese, should prove popular headline, while one can visit Cairo, Alhambra, Buda (but not pest), Edinburgh, Geneva, Lacedonia, Rome, Venice, Vienna and even Hollywood, without going outside the borders of the state.

In Missouri, Wellington, Napoleon and Waterloo are within ten miles of each other. Missouri also has competition, Fidelity, Fair Play, Loyalty, Wisdom, Wise and Braggadccio. There is also Noble, Moral, Witty and Enough, as well as Gobler and Rat.

Ohio has Novelty, a Constiutions, Coffins, Paint, Plants, Sweetwine and Salt Air. It also has a Joint and one can go from Coolville to Frost. But Pity Me where the Pity Me mine is located is probably the most peculiar, although there are Friendship and Felicity, Jolly, and Welcome, Aid and New Hope, as well as Getaway, Polkadotte, Fly and Fifteen.

Both Minnesota and Wisconsin have an Embarrass, while Wisconsin also has an Experiment, an Endeavor, a Hulbird, New Diggins, a Spirit and Hunkadory. There is also a Dry Bone in this state which is adjacent to Congressman Volstead's state.

Nebraska has a Bee, a Mascot and a Magnet.

In Nebraska a Wise Soldier of Lost Nation can Nodaway in the Morning Sun while the Mallard and Wrenn fly to Orange City.

In Oklahoma, Jumbo, the Hogshooter and Frogville has a Roman Nose.

There are many others as peculiar and unusual as these.

INVESTIGATE BEFORE YOU INVEST, WARNS BABSON

Statistician Says $500,000,000 Lost Every Year On Bad Securities

Wellesley Hills, Mass., May 4—"Eight out of every hundred new concerns are doomed to fail before they start" assording to a statement issued today by Roger W. Babson who has just returned frrom a tour of inspection.

"Everywhere I go," says Mr. Babson, "people ask me to look at their lists of 'Investments' and it is usually depressing business. do not know why men who are keen in business, who work hard to earn and save, will turn their savings over to a comparative stranger or 'invest' them in a stock or bond that they know little or nothing about — nor why men of means who should be somewhat experienced in matters of investment insist on buying promotion stocks.

"A recent investigation made by my associates shows that eighty out of every hundred concerns go thru at least one re-organization. This means a loss and possibly an assessment for all stockholders. The man who buys promotion stocks—the stocks of concerns not yet established on a paying basis—therefore has 8 chances out of 10 to lose, but two chances out of ten to maintain his equity and less than half that to make any money. These stocks should only be bought by those who realize these facts and who can afford to lose.

"Stocks and bonds of questionable value cost the American public about $500,000,000 a year — and the bill is paid by those who can ill afford to pay it.

"'Get-rick-quick — take a chance.—Columbus did!' arguments of the typical fly-bynight stock promotor appeals to the cupidity of the average man who does not stop to reason as he would if he were doing anything but investing his money. He does not seem to realize that if the proposition were such a sure-fire millionaire maker as it seems, tha. there woupld be no necessity for peddling it out in small lots to raise the necessary money to go ahead.

"I feel so keenly about this matter," continued Mr. Babson, "that I am going to risk repeating several things that have been said before. If you are making an investment—be it a hundred or several hundred dollars—be sure of the man and the firm to whom you turn over your money. It is a good plan to deal with only the most reputable houses. When in doubt ask your banker. He will give you an unbiased report. If there is any question as to standing of record—don't do it!

"In selecting securities for safe investment, buy stocks and bonds of established businesses, preferably those which have been thru years of existence and have managed to survive all sorts of business weather. If you must speculate, there are several hundred listed stocks of such concerns traded in on the stock exchanges. Buy securities of known and recognized value. When you are selecting bonds for income, you have several thousand sound issues sponsored by the reputable bond houses of the country and backed by ample security. Over a thousand of these are listed and traded in regularly.

"Do not play favorites. Diversify your list of holdings as broadly as possibly spread your securities over many lines of industry and as many different sections of the country as possible. Then no single accident to one concern and no extreme depression in one locality can seriously affect your position. "If you can't follow these three rules," concluded Mr. Babson, "I advise you to take your money to the nearest savings bank and leave it there for safe keeping."

General business continues strong in spite of the propaganda that is being spread in an attempt to depress stocks. The index of the Babsonchart shows general activity at 4 per cent above normal, an increase of 1 per cent over last week.

SOVIETS FINALLY INDUCE WOMEN TO BANISH VEILS

MOSCOW—Communistic party workers say they are now at last having some effect in their campaign to modernize the Moslem women in the Near East.

It took hundreds of communist "missionaries" nearly two years in some localities to persuade the women to remove their veils and participate in politics. Now, in Adierbijan alone however, more than 22,000 women have been organized in industrial activity, while workshops for feminine Mohammedans, where they are taught that the role of woman is far different from that of the usual Moslem conception have been established by hundreds in Turkestan Bokhara and elsewhere.

FOREIGN SCHOOLS IN ANGORA MUST HAVE TURKISH MASTER

Constantinople—Under the recent decree of the Angora Government, all foreign schools will henceforth be required to employ at least three Turkish masters to teach the language, history and geography of Turkey for a minimum of 13 hours weekly. These masters will be appointed by the Director of Public Instruction, but will be paidw by the foreign schools. As there are more than 300 Greek, Armenian, Jewish, British and Frenchm and American schools in Turkey, this new and drastic order will have far-reaching effects.

The American Girls' College and Robert College, which between them have nearly a thousand students, are trying to secure a reduction in the number of hours prescribed in the new curriculum.

Much Equipment For Soldier's Building

Many Articles Made in Department at State Hospital—Short History of Building Is Given—Institution Greatly Honored

The providing of equipment and making of furniture for the new soldiers' building at the Jacksonville State Hospital is a task of considerable proportions. At the same time equipment and furniture are being provided for the tuberculosis pottage in the rear of the annex building.

The 250 mattresses for the soldiers' building and the cottage have already been made in the hospital occupational therapy department. Two hundred of the mattresses will be used on the beds in the new building and fifty in the cottage. An equal number of iron beds have been ordered.

Bed linen worth $640 has been purchased; 304 yards of curtain material and 500 yards of toweling will be made up for use in the new building.

The occupational therapy department is manufacturing forty tables, 180 straight back chairs and forty rockers. It will require 200 blankets, 220 comforts and 500 yards of ticking to complete the bedding equipment.

Illinois is erecting a new soldier building to be occupied entirely by soldiers—veterans of the recent World war—who gave their all to the nation and the state of their birth.

The Jacksonville State Hospital was brought into existence through the efforts of the great philanthropist and humanitarian, Dorothy L. Dix—before the days of woman's organizations, women's clubs and kindred organizations for charitable purposes. Dorothy L. Dix through that spirit of brotherly love, conceived the idea that proper treatment and proper care was not meeted with to the unfortunate who by reason of defects or diseases was unable to cope with the great progress of this advancing United States and after having viewed the situation in a number of eastern states and through the co-operation of their legislative body; thereby established a series of hospitals in the eastern states.

Dorothy L. Dix visited the great prairie state of Illinois. There she found conditions such that she was again struck with horror and with her untiring efforts and the co-operation of some of the great citizens and assistance of these philanthropic citizens as well as the legislative body of the State of Illinois, she was again able to see her untiring efforts bear forth fruit.

First Hospital

An appropriation was made, a building contructed, and the great State Hospital at Jacksonville came into existence—the first of its kind in Illinois. Now again the great and illustrious State of Illinois through its executive and legislative body has seen fit to appropriate a large sum of money for the construction of a Memorial Hospital for the mentally afflicted soldiers of the great state.

There is no state in the Union more untiring, more devoted to her sons than Illinois and the new institution which is now in course of construction will far exceed anything ever contemplated by any state of government in order that they may secure for their soldier patients the very best that science can give to them. Their surrondings are in keeping with what one would expect of the great state of Illinois—paying tribute, honor and debt gratuitously when these unfortunates were the defenders of their country.

The Jackksonville State Hospital is located in one of the most beautiful cities gathered to the bosom of the illustrious state of Illinois. Men and women of world and national fame have breathed their first breath of existence in this community and it is fitting and proper when an atmosphere of this kind of service and love of country dominates, this new building should be ereectd in this community—surrounded as it is by large farm prairie and dotted farm cottages which are occupied by intelligent farmers. While it can boast of a population of about 20,000, it has within its walls four colleges and three state institutions as well as other industries. The state of Illinois does well when she consecrates the many of these unfortunates afflicted with mental trouble to this community where they will receive every care and attention.

PROPER CARE OF WATCH

Sensitive Piece of Mechanism Seldom Given the Attention Which Should Be Accorded It.

On cold days many of us are annoyed to find that our pocket or wrist timepieces are not behaving well.

Suspecting dirt or "tired" mechanism, we take our chronometer to be examined and doctored.

But how many owners of watches attribute any blame to themselves when their timepiece goes out of order?

A watch is a highly sensitive piece of mechanism. About 75 per cent of us, on retiring for the night, place our watches on the cold washstand or mantelpiece, and during the night, the fire having burned down and out, the atmosphere of the bedroom becomes chilly. Now, all metals contract with cold, yet many express surprise when they rise in the morning and find that their timepiece has gone wrong.

The best plan to prevent your watch from becoming "frozen up" is to sleep with it under your pillow. This evens the temperature—and incidentally your watch is in a safer resting place.

It is generally thought that it is merely a matter of convenience whether a timepiece is wound up at night or in the morning. The morning is the better time, because, fortified with the latent power in the spring, the mechanism is more able to withstand the jolts and shakes it receives during the day.

BEGAN HIS CAREER EARLY

John Muir, When a Boy, Gave Promise of the Genius That Later Made Him Famous.

John Muir, the naturalist, in his youth, developed a talent for invention, making his own tools out of the material at hand. During this period he invented an apparatus which, when attached to his bed, not only awakened him at a definite hour, but simultaneously lighted a lamp. After so many minutes allotted for dressing, a hook was pushed up from a rack below the top of his desk, thrown open, and allowed to remain there a certain number of minutes. Then the machinery closed the book, dropped it back into its place, and moved the rack forward with the next book required.

Muir also constructed a timepiece which indicated the days of the month and of the week as well as the hours. One of his clocks kept good time for 50 years. He also built a self-setting sawmill and an automatic contrivance for feeding horses at a required hour. Among his tools was a fine saw made out of strips of steel from old corsets, and bradawls, punches and a pair of compasses from wire and old files.

Arizona Desert.

A vast stretch of clean-swept sand to distant mountains; sand not solely gray, but garnet red and rich black brown. Stately columns of cactus—twenty, thirty, forty feet high—softly green with a faint pink bloom. Curving, fingerlike cactus with crimson blossoms, like gorgeous jewels, at the tips of graceful stems. Shorter cactus, a fluff of white. Close to the ground, little cactus heads, delicately pinkish green. Sage brush, gray-green in leaf, gold in blossom. Palo verde trees, a tangle of slender green stems. Everywhere graceful mesquite bushes like rich dark evergreens. Over all, a turquoise sky. Flooding all, sunshine like molten gold. Far away, purple, rose amethyst and lavender of silent hills.

That is the desert—a silent, slumbering land of exquisite color; a vast soundless place of peace.

Talking "Pure Chaucer."

One of the world's three or four great story-tellers, he was also one of the best versifiers that ever made English trip and sing with a gayety that seemed careless, but where every foot beats time to the time of the thought. By the skillful arrangement of his pauses he evaded the monotony of the couplet, and gave to the rhymed pentameter, which he made an heroic measure, something of the architectural repose of blank verse.

He found our language lumpish, stiff, unwilling, too apt to speak Saxony in grout, monosyllables; he left it enriched with the longer measure of the Italian and Provencal poets. . . . He first wrote English, and it was a feeling of this, I suspect, that made it fashionable in Elizabeth's day to "talk pure Chaucer."—Lowell.

Making Liars.

A contributor says that woman is the creator of the liar:

When she asks him if she is the only girl he ever loved.

When she asks him where he has been, with whom, and doing what.

When she insists upon knowing what he did with that $5.40 he had last week.

When she inquires into any phase of his personal business.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

ODD WEAPONS FOR DUELS

Controversy That Had Fatal Ending Settled With Billiard Ball —Cagliostro's Peculiar Idea.

Billiard players will be interested to know that 80 years ago a duel with a billiard ball took place in which a man was killed. The quarrel was between two men named Lenfant and Mellant in the commune of Maisonfort (Seine-et-Oise), France.

One September day they quarreled over a game of billiards. Challenges were exchanged, the red billiard ball was selected as the weapon and lots were drawn to see who should throw it first.

Mellant was favored, and threw with such speed and aim that Lenfant, struck on the temple, fell dead.

The duel of the pill is credited to Cagliostro. He had called a physician a quack. Possibly the physician thought this was too like the pot calling the kettle black. Anyway, he challenged. Cagliostro proposed that two pills, one poisonous, the other harmless, be put in a box and shaken up. Each was to draw a pill and swallow it.

"A medical controversy should be settled in a medical fashion," the magician explained. It is not on record that the duel was carried out.

THEIR THIRD WIFE A TREE

Hindus Have Evolved Really Unique Way of Evading a Religious Technicality.

Probably the most curious form of marriage in existence prevails in India, where men and women are married to trees. A Hindu in the Punjab cannot be legally married a third time, and when, therefore, he wants a third wife, he is married to a certain tree, so that when he does actually take another wife she counts as his fourth.

In another district of India there are communities where a tree marriage is solemnized in the case of a man who has lost two wives and is desirous of taking a third, or a man who is too poor to marry in the usual way.

In the latter case, the man is afterwards married to a widow. As, however, the remarriage of a widow is held by orthodox Hindus to be fraught with every calamity, the wedding is performed at dead of night under an old mango tree. It is not easy to understand the reason for such an extraordinary custom as the tree marriages, but one authority points out that it seems to be intended to avert the curse of widowhood, the "husband" being always alive.

"Mining" for Museum Specimens.

Few persons contemplating the remarkable specimens of extinct animals to be seen in some museums realize the amount of work which has been entailed in the uncovering and preparation of these specimens. In the first place, a well-equipped expedition is generally sent out to look for these bones, and many miles are sometimes covered in the search of a likely spot for operations. Even then tons of sand are carefully moved, often without uncovering the bones that are being sought. The removal of the soil can be done only by those who are familiar with the work, for an inexperienced hand could readily do much damage by not knowing how to proceed. When a bone has been located it is uncovered slowly by the aid of small brushes and delicate implements. The bones when found are exceedingly brittle and must be handled with the greatest of care. When they are finally brought to light they are given a coat of shellac and then placed in a bath of flour paste. They are then carefully wrapped in strips of fabric and put in boxes. When the latter are placed in crates for shipment the smaller boxes are surrounded with cotton and other material to prevent any possibility of damage being done to the specimens.

Borrowed His Way to Riches.

Henry Phipps was associated with Andrew Carnegie for 50 years in the steel business. His wealth increased from nothing to $50,000,000. His climb was illustrated by a friend who told of the career of a man who owned a large chicken farm.

"How did you happen to start in the chicken business?" somebody asked him.

"When I was young I was out of work for a spell," he answered. "So I borrowed a hen and a dozen fresh eggs from a neighbor. I set the hen on the eggs and all of them hatched. Then I waited until the hen had laid a dozen eggs. I took the hen and the dozen eggs I borrowed back to the owner. He had what I borrowed from him and I had a dozen chickens. The dozen chickens started my farm."

Phipps borrowed 25 cents to advertise for a job. Later he borrowed $800 to enter the partnership which made him rich.

Feeling the Pulse.

"Your constituents are protesting against your announcement that you will retire from public life."

"I am glad to hear it," said Senator Sorghum. "That kind of protest was the precise purpose of the announcement."

Pretty as a Picture.

"He said you are pretty as a picture."

"A doubtful compliment," replied Miss Cayenne. "Have you noticed some of the faces on the magazine covers?"

The Wrong Minute.

"I asked for a raise."

"Did you get it?"

"I did not. I chose the wrong time to approach him. When I burst in on him he was just compiling his income tax statement."

ARE THE RAILROADS EFFICIENTLY OPERATED?

Replying to criticisms of the efficiency of private operation of railways recently voiced by Senator Couzens of Michigan, the Railway Age shows in an editorial in its current issue that within the last two years the railways have reduced their operating expenses $70,000,000 a month, and that in January and February they were $48,000,000 less than in the same months of 1920 under government operation, although the railways this year are paying higher average wages, higher prices for coal and handling more business than under government control.

Senator Couzens charged the railways with "a policy which holds that all substantial reductions in operating costs are dependent upon commensurate reductions in rate of compensation of railway employes." The Railway Age says that most of the reduction of operating expenses that has been secured has been due "not to reduction of wages, but to reductions in the number of employes, of whom there are now about 135,000 less than at the termination of government control, although a larger freight business is being handled. In the five months ended March 1, 1921, railway operating expenses were $2,378,000,000. In the five months ended March 1, 1923, they were $2,028,000,000. This is a reduction of $350,000,000, or $70,000,000,000 a month in two years. Most of the benefit of the reductions in operating expenses which have been secured within the last two years already has been passed along to the public in reductions of freight rates, which, on the basis of the business now being handled, amount to about $600,000,000 a year."

The Railway Age shows that in the ten years before government operation was adopted, there was a great increase in the efficiency with which railway facilities were operated.

"In the ten years ending with 1917," it says, "the freight business handled per mile of line increased 63 per cent and per mile of track 48 per cent. The amount of freight business handled per employe increased 61 per cent, per freight car 44 per cent and per ton of freight car capacity 17 per cent. It increased 45 per cent per freight locomotive and 13 per cent per pound of locomotive tractive power.

"In 1918 government operation of railways was adopted. Then for the first time in many years a decline in the amount of freight business handled per employe occurred, this being due entirely to an abnormal increase in the number of employes, and there was an increase in operating expenses of 40 per cent. In 1919 there was a decline in freight business, but a still further increase in employes."

Statistics are given which show that the number of tons of freight carried one mile per employe in 1907 was 145,501 and in 1917 it was 227,636. In 1918 this declined to 220,595 and in 1919 to 190,912. It was increased in 1920 under private operation to 202,837 and is now running at the rate of 228,800, a higher figure than was reached even in 1917. It is also shown that the amount of freight business now being handled per mile of railway line and per locomotive is larger than ever before.

TWIN CITIES TO HAVE NOISELESS TROLLEYS

MINNEAPOLIS. — Minneapolis and St. Paul and suburban territories are to have virtually noiseless street cars in the not distant future.

After years of experiment, the Twin City Rapid Transit Company, which operates street cars in both cities and suburbs, has had engineers build a trolley car that is free from moist of the noxious noise attendant upon present day traction operation.

Work on the construction of the new car began when the motor, weighing about 900 pounds, was put on the market by large electrical equipment concerns to replace the old motor weighing 2,400 pounds.

The journal box, which on the old cars protrudes out from the wheel, will be replaced by a new spiral roller bearing placed inside and adjoining the wheel.

The new cars also have a rubber cushion over the spiral roller which supports the weight of the truck, the car and the passenger load, and they are a great factor as a noise eliminator. These cushions will carry a load of 48,000 pounds.

The trucks are also equipped with what is known as a swinging spring plank which enables the use of a combination of springs that take up the overload and are easily adjustable at all times.

Compared to the weight of 43,000 pounds for the old car, the new trolleys weigh 25,000 pounds, have the same carrying capacity, and will stand the wear and tear as well as the old cars, according to transit officials.

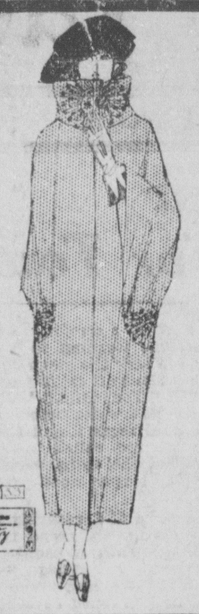

One of the important eliminators of noise in the new car is the band brake, similar to the automobile brake, which works on the wheel drum rather than the old shoe brake on the wheel itself.

Another improvement tending toward elimination of noise is the encasement of windows in rubber, thus preventing the rattle.

THE C. AND A. ROAD AND THE GROUP PLAN

Mr. Lutz continued his statement as follows:

It has been frequently stated and in fact testimony was given at the general hearing in Washington, that there was no longer any competition in rates and for that reason the eeffct of consolidation on rates might be ignored. This from my view point is entirely erroneous. The railroads still have the initiative in rate making and without going into details they are still taking advantage of such initiative and are adjusting rates to meet the peculiar conditions affecting each line in a way that would not be practicable or possible under the proposed consolidation.

As a specific illustration, the Chicago & Alton railroad some time since took the initiative in establishing a rate on coal to Kansas City which has proven to be of great benefit, not only to the citizens of Kansas City as a whole, but to the Alton railroad. Had the Alton been a part of a great system such as now contemplated, such action would not have been initiated as the coal could have been supplied from mines on other parts of the system nearer to Kansas City than the Springfield, Ill., district from which the Alton's rate applied.

Furthermore, the Alton has established certain reduced fares from time to time which enabled it to materially increase its passenger traffic and meet a demand of the traveling public in the territory served by the Alton. Were the road to be combined, as suggested, this might not and perhaps could not be found feasible or practicable owing to the fact that a practice or policy meeting the requirements of a road situated as is the Alton might not be found advisable if this situation had to be viewed from the standpoint of a large system having only interests in the territory now served by the Alton.

As to service and again referring to the Alton as an illustration: The Alton's service is now adjusted so as to meet the special needs and wants of the territory served by it. Were the great Southwestern systems to be combined into only two lines, these two lines reaching Chicago with their own rails, necessarily the service on either of these systems would have to be adjusted with relation to the system as a whole, but it could not and would not be adjusted as it now is with relation to the territory as at present served by these various lines.

Entirely a side from this phase of the matter and more important perhaps than all is the serious disruption of commercial and traffic conditions that would follow the proposed consolidation scheme. Take for instance, St. Louis and Kansas City, these two larger cities owe their commercial and industrial development in no small degree to the fact that they are the terminal for large and important railroads radiating in all directions. To change all this and consolidate the vast railroad mileage in the southwest into two great systems with lines of their own to Chicago would entirely change the situation so far as these two cities are concerned and the natural result would be for the two great systems in question to develop their long haul traffic and result in making cities like St. Louis and Kansas City wayside or intermediate stations, rather than important termini of many great railroad systems as at present.

With reference to the economics which Professor Ripley states were brought about during federal control and which he assumes would again follow unified operation, let us consider the actual facts developed by our experience with federal operation. It is true at the beginning of federal control a great deal was said about car mileage saving by the routing of freight via the shortest line. It was soon found from a practical standpoint this did not tend either economy or to efficiency of service; that frequently the longer lines was in position to handle the traffic more expeditiously and more economically than the shorter line as it was found that many conditions other than actual mileage had to be taken into consideration; for instance, grade lines, density of traffic and the necessity of permittting traffic to be sent via the longer line in order to bring about an equalled movement of troffic.

For these and other reasons the federal administration found it advisable, first, to permit the use of the longer line where the longer line was not in excess of 115 per cent of the shorter line. This was later increased to 125 per cent and then to 130 per cent, and in fact it was found, as it always will be found, that these situations must be worked out to meet the peculiar conditions existing on each line and that there is nothing in the contention that the short routing of freight to be brought about under forced consolidation would in and of itself result in economy.

Another feature in connection with the routing of traffic via the short line which must be considered is service for people having their homes and business interests at various communities in the longer line.

As a specific instance and again referring to the Alton which is a line between Chicago and Kansas City whose mileage is thirty-two miles longer than the Santa Fe; the Alton handles much thru traffic both freight and passenger between these two terminal cities; its roadbed, rails and general physical condition of the property have been brought up to a standard to handle such thru traffic economically in competition with the shorter line; to turn all such thru traffic to the short line, the Santa Fe, would result in deterioration of the service of the Alton line as the local business of the Alton would not be sufficient to justify the present standard of roadbed or freight and passenger service. Hence, the inevitable result in an instance of this kind would be a deterioration of service on the longer line to the great detriment of the people located and served by such longer line.

The "sailing days" proposition, a much heralded saving of equipment during the period of federal control was also found by practical experience to be of little benefit; for instance, in a great deal of territory and particularly in the large grain producing section of the west it was found that box cars were needed to move the grain eastbound and that to hold the merchandise westbound for certain specified sailing days not only delayed the cars reaching the point at which they were needed for eastbound loading but also slowed up and delayed the merchandise movement.

The savings brought about by consolidation of train loads referred to by Professor Ropley were also greatly overestimated as it was found by practical experience there was frequently much delay in assembling and switching cars arriving via various roads in any large terminal in order to consolidate the movement into train load lots, and that as a rule such freight was handled more economically and more expeditiously by permitting it to go forward without delay under regular train schedules.

There were savings under federal control to a limited extent in the joint use of terminals, but in many cases this situation has been taken advantage of by the roads under private control. In any event the interstate commerce commission now has authority at the present time to force the joint use of terminals wherein their judgment it is practical and feasible.

Another important feature and perhaps the most important of all is the stultifying in men of the individual initiative and incentive, so essential if the best results are to be obtained, and which has been encouraged and fostered under existing competitive conditions—the outgrowth of the natural development of our present transportation system. Therefore, as previously stated, to carry out such a scheme as now proposed would in any judgment result in increased rather than decreased cost of operation; competition would practically disappear; service would not be as satisfactory to the shipping and traveling public as under present conditions and the result would be so disappointing to the people as a whole that, as previously stated, the inevitable next move would be federal ownership and operation.

Entirely aside from this phase of the case, however, I now desire to touch upon which in my mind is the most vital issue at stake. We have for two hundred and fifty years or ever since the founding of our government, gone on the assumption that the sacredness of private property was fundamental; we are now suggesting a scheme which if made effective would mean, in effect, the confiscation of private property without due process of law in a manner never heretofore contemplated; it would mean that the government would say to one man at which price he must sell his property and to whom he must sell it, and to another man at what price he must purchase property and from whom he must purchase it. It is an effort to in this manner force the stronger to bear the burden of the weak; it is one of the many extreme progressive ideas now extant, which if carried to their logical conclusion leads directly to socialism.

If this kind of socialistic or paternalistic treatment can be brought about as to railroads, it can under the cloak of one reason or another be done as to coal mines, steel plants, lumber mills, etc., and we are starting in a direction, in my judgment entirely un-American, at least un-American as we have conceived Americanism in the past.

Is it not high time for us to take cognizance of this drift of affairs and at least let the people know exactly the direction in which we are headed and what we may inevitably expect in the way of government control and operation of railroads if we take the first big step of forced consolidation and if this should be brought about it would be a big stepping stone in the effort already being made in certain quarters to nationalize coal mines, lumber, oil and other natural resources.

I appreciate fully that congress has called upon the commission to present and adopt a plan for consolidation of the railroad properties of the continental United States into a number of systems. At the same time if the commission feel, as I have no doubt they do, that for reasons I have given herein and for other reasons which will occur to the commission, the entire futility of attempting to improve the transportation system by the scheme now under consideration and the danger of attempted legislation in this direction, I hope they will make their views known in no uncertain terms to congress and the people.

I have no objection to any proper railroad consolidation which can be brought about by agreement between the interested parties and upon thorough knowledge of all concerned, including the public directly affected by such consolidation, but I do not seriously object and protest against any wholesale consolidation which will by no manner or means accomplish what it is proposed to accomplish and which will only result in disappointment to all concerned, except possibly the few radically inclined who are looking for and working, not only the naturalization of railroads, but the nationalization of all industry generally.

The hard coal miners want more money. Their low day pay scale is about $5.00. The low day scale for soft coal miners is about $7.50. This is what the hard coal miners are asking for. It looks like more money and higher priced coal or a strike. Take your pick and take your chances.

Literberry school closed Thursday. There was a fine spread in the school room, and teachers, parents and children all had a social day.

House cleaning and flower planting are the most interesting topics in Literberry at present.

Jesse Liter had a birthday Friday and his wife and daughter gave him a fine dinner and invited in friends to help him enjoy the day.

ENGLISH STADIUM SEATS 126,000 SPECTATORS

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON.—England boasts the finest sports arena in the world. It is the new stadium at Wembley which opened recently with the final for the English football cup. It accommodates 126,500 spectators which is almost twice the capacity of the famous Greek stadium at Athens, and is considerably larger than either the Yale or Harvard bowls. This huge arena is literally a stadium in the Green and Roman sense of the term, and oblong without corners.

The site was cut out of a hillside on an old golf course. The turf is exceptionally fine, being suited not only for football but also for baseball, cricket and lawn tennis. On first view it suggests a modern vision of the Colosseum of Rome, with vistas of a cleaner sport activity than that ancient shambles afforded.

The stadium is only 15 minutes from London. It will be the scene of American-British lawn tennis matches and national cricket and football games. A large lake within the enclosure will be used for international swimming contests.

HONOLULU POSTOFFICE IS ORIENTAL GRAB BAG

Deadsnakes and Divers Articles Clutte Mail — Addresses Must Be Translated.

HONULULU.—That the spirit and smells of the Far East hover over Honolulu post office as one of the prime evidences of the city's cosmopolitan position at "the crossroads of the Pacific" is revealed any day on which a ressi arrives from the Orient.

Feid snakes, mah-jongg sets, Filipino smoking tobacco strong enough to knock a man down, strange musical instruments, betel nuts, dried fish, herbs for medicine, jade, mandarin coats, silks, fans ancient eggs, firecrackers, kimonas, idols and material for soups—this is a typical list of items that may be found in any mail from Japan, China and the Philippines, according tod Postmaster D. H. Mac Adam.

The miscellaneous packages also bring with them a tremendous amount of detail work, for at least 50 per cent of all the letters and packages in a mail from the Orient are addressed solely in the language of their origin, which must be translated into English before they can be distributed. For instance, out of a recent mail containing 12,000 letters, 6,000 were addressed only in Japanese characters. This necessitated the employment of Japanese, Filipino, Chinese and Korean clerks.

The mails between Honolulu, the Orient and the South Seas are growing in size, according to figures compiled by Postmaster Mac-Adam. In 1921 all classes of mail to China, Japan and Manila aggregated 3,804 bags and had risen to 3,932 in 1922, an increase of 128.

Miss Lucille Jones of Murrayville spent Saturday in this city on a shopping tour.

KING TO VISIT POPE DESPITE PROTEST

LONDON.—When King George goes to Rome in May he will, according to the program that has been prepared for him, call on the Pope. The announcement has prompted that eminently loyal patriotic and devout body the Free Church of Scotland, to send a sort of "Round Robin" to the Prime Minister "respectfully" calling his attention to an ancient statute which prohibits the king from having any intercourse whatever with the See of Rome. Therefore, the Church of Scotland utters a "solemn protest" against the proposed visit to the Vatican taking place either next May or at any other time.

The Prime Minister, Bonar Law, is asked in effect to tell the King that he must not, under any circumstances, cross the threshold of the Vatican.

It is one of the fictions of English law that the King can do no wrong. He is supposed to be above the law. Therefore, if in defiance of an old law which most people forgot long ago the King should visit the Pope, the wrong would be done not by the King but by his political master the Prime Minister, who allowed him to do it.

Of course that visit will take place as arranged in spite of the protest of the Church of Scotland.

CONQUERED THE WART HOG

"Flivver" Proved Too Much for Pugnacious South African Animal Who Objected to It.

The wild animals of South Africa do not take kindly to such newfangled ideas as "flivvers," as the following incident, related by William McStay, historian of H. A. Snow's expedition, which has been hunting big game from a motorcar, will show:

"The wart hog, whose name fairly well describes his appearance, fought Snow's machine to a standstill; to the beast, the 'fliv' was a new form of enemy. Snow encountered the wart hog one day in driving a path across the trackless waste. For amusement the explorer chased the hog quite a distance, when, with suddenness and ferocity, the beast turned to attack. With slavering jowls and grunting defiance the wart hog hurled itself against the trusty flivver, the only carrier not susceptible to the death bite of the tse-tse fly. Its tusks ripped the tires. Its hard head battered the radiator.

"Backward reeled the Tin Lizzie, trembling in every member. Forward she lunged again, thwacking the animal in broad beam. The latter charged anew, again she retreated and again she lunged like a gasoline billygoat. Finally the wart hog gave up the struggle and went and sat down afar off, watching the new enemy it could not conquer. The beast's attitude of dejection was sufficient to cause laughter."

LITTLE IS NOW WASTED

Science Has Discovered Innumerable Methods for Turning Rubbish to Profitable Uses.

One of the most remarkable features of modern life is that nothing need be wasted.

Science has discovered ways of turning every kind of rubbish into something useful. Refuse is burned in specially constructed furnaces, and the heat produced is turned into steam which is used for driving the dynamos that produce electric light. Even the ashes are used to make cement.

Soapsuds, which formerly polluted our rivers, are now strained, mixed with lime, and pressed into bricks, which, when burned, give three times the amount of heat that a similar quantity of coal gas would produce.

A dead horse can be put to almost endless uses. The hair is turned into hair-cloth and stuffing for mattresses; the hide forms leather table coverings; the tendons are made into glue and gelatine; the flesh is used as food for cats and dogs, and the blood is manufactured into prussiate of potash and manure. The bones reappear as knifehandles.

Jelly has been made from old boots and whisky from old shirts. Sawdust can be made into quite eatable cakes, and fish-scales into artificial pearls.

Social Classification.

A Kentucky negro who had been in the city only about two months got a job as hall boy in an apartment house that has seen better days; a choice building once, but one that went the way with many others during the housing shortage and was cut up into sleeping cubicles by absentee landladies with an eye to fat weekly intake.

A caller stopped the other day to see a man living in the house. The hall boy responded that the person sought was not in.

"Well, take me up to his place, anyhow," said the caller.

"Dey ain't no use takin' you up," expostulated the hall boy. "I done tole you, mister, dat gentleman is gone out."

"Take me up," persisted the visitor, "I'll leave a message with his folks."

"Mister," replied the youth with an air that dismissed the question for all time, "it won't do no good. Dey ain't no folks lives here at all, jes' roomers."

What and Where Kent's Hole Is

A cavern in the vicinity of Torquay, England, famous not only for its remains of extinct animals, known as Kent's Hole. Although the existence of this cave had been known from time immemorial, it did not attract the attention of scientists until 1825. Excavations were carried on by Pengelly from 1865 to 1880, at a cost of nearly £2,000 and yielded results of the highest importance to the science of anthropology.

There were found flint tools of the Paleolithic Age and implements of bone, such as needles, awls and harpoons. The animal remains discovered comprised those of the lion, hyena, bear, wolf, fox, rhinoceros, mammoth, Irish elk and reindeer, showing that those animals once lived in Britain and were co-temporaneous with men of the Stone Age.

Commoner Who Made Many Lords.

William Pitt, the younger, when he first became prime minister of England, found 250 peers in the house of lords. In nineteen years he created 140 more.

"He made peers of second-rate squires and fat graziers," Disraeli said of him. "He clutched them from the counting houses of Cornhill and caught them in the alleys of Lombard street."

Pitt rarely rose before noon and it is said that he often did not work after dinner, because he was intoxicated. He arrived at the house of commons drunk on the day when war was declared between England and France in 1793.

The Art of a Hostess.

"She's a delightful hostess, isn't she?"

"Very. She always arranges things so that you never have to be bored for even a minute by your own husband."

Miss Mary E. McQuire, one of Murrayville's public school teachers was a business caller in Jacksonville yesterday.

IN AN ENCHANTED PLACE

That evening was the evening of the full moon. The garden was an enchanted place where all the flowers seemed white. The lilies, the daphnes, the orange blossoms, the white stocks, the white pinks, the white roses—you could see these as plainly as in the daytime; but the colored flowers existed only as fragrance.

The three younger women sat on the low wall at the end of the top garden after dinner, Rose a little apart from the others, and watched the enormous moon moving slowly over the place where Shelley had lived. . . just a hundred years before. The sea quivered along the path of the moon. The stars winked and trembled. The mountains were misty blue outlines, with little clusters of lights shining through from little clusters of homes. In the gardens the plants stood quite still straight and unstirred by the smallest riffle of air.—From "The Enchanted April."

PRANKISH DOG STEALS MORNING NEWSPAPERS

Winnipeg.—The culprit who for a month has been stealing morning papers in Armstrong Point, an exclusive residence section of Winnipeg, has been found.

A careful search was organized by delivery boys and district managers of newspapers, who resented the charge that they had been negligent in the performance of their duties.

The culprit is "Colonel"—possessor of a black fur coat, twinkling eye, stubby tail, a bark and a nose for news. He was arrested, spanked and released, after he had been seen snatching freshly delivered newspapers and burying them.

S.S.S. keeps away pimples!
Spring is the "rush season" for pimples. Keep them from coming, and stop them quickly when they do come, by using the king of all Blood-Cleansers, S. S. S.
Pimples are the first thing one notices in another person's face. The world looks at pimples sideways and passes on. It is too often cruel in its misjudgment. It judges from what it sees on the outside. Pimples are easy to get rid of. Not many people realize the enormous importance of the red-cells in the blood. For 97 years S. S. S. has been building red-blood-cells for the vast army of those who have suffered from skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, boils, and many forms of fiery, itching eczema. Blood-cells are the "dough-boys" in Nature's wonderful army. They are the conquerors of disease, blood-impurities, and weaknesses. If there are too few of them, they must retreat, and the disease-forces advance, take possession of your body, and plant their flag on your face, nerves, tissues. Help your blood to fight. Let S. S. S. increase the fighting blood-cell "dough-boys" in your blood. See impurities, skin eruptions, boils and all the rest vanish from your face. An increase of blood-cells will do it every time. S. S. S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, body-builders, blood-cleansers of all time. Save time and money, and try nothing but "S. S. S."
S. S. S. has been proving its remarkable powers for 97 years. Your grandfather, if alive, would remember it well. S. S. S., because of its blood-building powers is a remarkable builder of firm, healthy flesh. It fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion as thousands of men and women can testify. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.
Miss Ida Wilson, Harrisville, W. Va., writes: "I was in a run-down condition. Had pimples and skin eruptions—was nervous. I took S. S. S. It built me up until I feel like another person. I am much stronger and better in every way."

You can have a ruddy, rosy, healthful face by building up your Blood-Cells with S.S.S.
S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again

CORN PRICES BROKE UNDER HEAVY SELLING

CHICAGO, May 5.—Corn broke down in price today under heavy selling, and carried wheat along. Nearly perfect weather for corn planting laid the corn market open to attack from traders who professed to believe that recent purchasing of corn had been greatly overdone. Wheat closed heavy, 1 to 1½c net lower, with July $1.17¼ to $1.17¾ and September $1.15½. Corn finished 2 to 2¾c down, oats a shade to 3c off and provisions at a set back of 12 to 25c.

At first all the grain market, especially wheat showed a tendency to rise to a higher level of values. The tendency was chiefly due to apparent indifference which the Liverpool wheat trade displayed regarding yesterday's price declines in America. Wheat bulls here were also disposed to emphasize drought reports from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. When heavy selling duplicated in the corn market, however, many holders of wheat became discouraged, and liquidation assumed large proportions in wheat as well as in corn. For the time being, neither corn nor wheat appeared to have much rallying power left at the finish.

With an outlook that the coming weak would witness a continuation of clear skies and normal temperatures favoroble for field work thruout the corn belt, bears were quick to seize the opportunity to press for a downward readjustment of corn prices. Eastern interests in particular were said to be convinced that recent advances in the corn market had been excessive, and that a reaction was due. Reports at hand indicated that good progress in corn planting had already been made, and with prices unsteady in the general commodity list and with aggressive selling in the corn market, corn underwent a break of nearly 3c a bushel in some cases. Oats were neglected, and held comparatively firm.

Provisions declined with grain.

ALL SPANIARDS IN LONDON WELCOME AT EMBASSY

London. — Antonio Martinez came to London 14 years ago from Seville Spain, and went to work as a waiter. But he was a Spaniard with ambitions and ideals; and today he is the proprietor of the Scottish Club, an institution started in 1917 with $750 of his savings.

Now the club has 800 members, a third of them English, and is housed in Cavendish Square. The club is a little bit of old Spain, and whenever King Alfonso comes to London he visits it.

Alfonso Merry del Val, the Spanish Ambassador to England, recently opened an exhibition of the paintings of Antonio Faure at the Spanish Club. The ambassador is democratic affable, and popular. Every Spaniard in London knows him, and the latch string at the embassy is always on the outside to a countryman.

A Greater Touring Car Value

The present price of the Ford Touring Car is the lowest ever made.

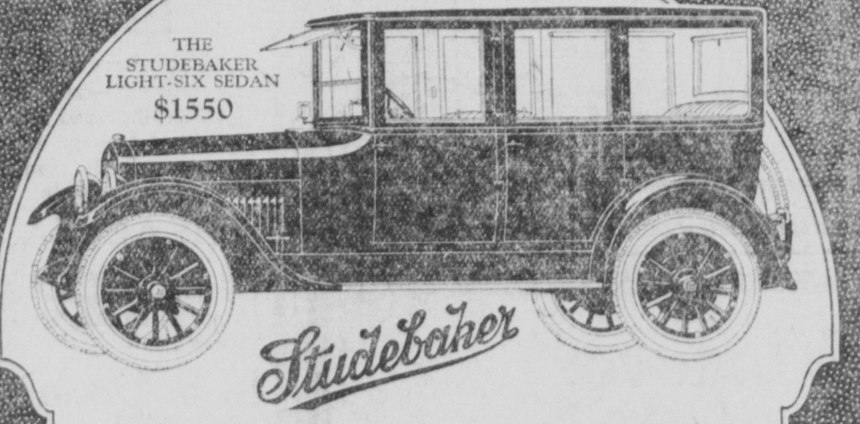

And yet the car itself is a greater value. It is better looking with slanting windshield, a one-man top and improved seats. And there are many refinements in chassis construction.

The demand is so great that deliveries will soon be impossible. To protect yourself, order now. Make a small down payment, the balance on easy terms.

Ford prices have never been so low
Ford quality has never been so high

—But You Can't Ride on the Paint!

Imitation diamonds can be made to look so real and sparkle so brightly that it is difficult to tell them from the genuine.

But try to sell one and you will find out its real worth in a flash.

Same with automobiles. Weaknesses of construction in a closed car can be hidden, for a time, with paint and varnish and fancy fittings. But all is not quality that glitters.

You can't ride on the paint. And when you place such a car in the second hand market, you suffer a heavy depreciation because it lacked real intrinsic value at the outset. Use will never improve a mediocre product.

The second hand floor is the melting pot for automobile values. Cars are stripped of artificial values and only inherent worth counts.

Motor car owners tell us that the trade-in value of any Studebaker car at the end of three or four or five years of useful life is greater than on any other car built today—the percentage of depreciation is the lowest.

No wonder the Studebaker Light-Six Sedan is the fastest selling quality Sedan in the world!

The name Studebaker stands for quality, durability, comfort and integrity.

Four wide-opening doors. Eight-day clock. Quick-action cowl ventilator. Attractive coach lamps. Heater. Mohair velvet plush upholstery. Glare-proof visor and windshield cleaner. Dome light. Thief-proof transmission lock.

Market Report

By The Associated Press

BUTTER MARKET FAIRLY ACTIVE

CHICAGO, May 5.—The butter market here today was fairly active and quite firm. Supplies were moderate. Under grades particularly, were closely cleaned but no surplus of any grade was reported. Offerings were quite firmly held on the below quoted prices but the policy of nearly all dealers is free selling as far as any surplus is concerned.

Reports of more butter at the depots increased the inclination of some to sell but values were generally pretty firm. Heavier supplies made the car market somewhat easier. Offerings at the below prices met with little response from the buyers.

Fresh butter: 92 score 41½, 91 score 41; 90 score 40; 89 score 40; 88 score 39½; 87 score 39; 86 score 38½.

Centralized carlots: 90 score 41½; 89 score 40½.

STOCK MARKET SAGS AFTER OPENING

FINANCIAL.
Day's total sales 422,000 shares.
Twenty industrials averaged 96.73; net gain .13.
High 1923 — 105.38; low 96.39.
Twenty railroads averaged 84.01; net gain .14.
High 1923 — 90.63; low 83.87.
Total sales (par value) $6,236,000.

NEW YORK, May 5.— Prices rallied briskly at the opening of today's stock market in response to extensive short covering operations, but when these had been completed the market sagged again and closing prices were irregular.

The only outside news development of any importance was another cut of 10c a barrel in the price of mid-continent crude oil, the third within the last fortnite but with few exceptions the oil shares offered good resistence to the selling pressure which the cut inspired.

Bear traders, however, apparently endeavoring to secure a pessimistic feeling in the market, hammered Baldwin Locomotive in the last hour and forced it down 1½ points to 127¼, a new low record for the year. Several of the other speculative favorites, notably Studebaker, American Can, Cosden, Gulf States Steel, North American and Stewart-Warner also yielded fractionally on the day. United States Steel touched 102¾ but fell back to 102¼, up ⅛ at the close.

Sugar shares made good recovery from recent heaviness, American rising 2 points and Cuban-American, Cuba Cane common preferred and South Porto Rican gained a point or more. Some of the other industrials failed to register net gains of a point were Burns Brothers B, Eastman Kodak, Pan American A and B, Peoples Gas and Pullman.

United States Government issues were firm, all of the active issues advancing from 2.32 to 2.38 of a point with the exception of the tax exempt 3½s which were off 1.32 of a point and the victory 4¾s which were unchanged.

PREPARING PROGRAM FOR HOSPITAL DAY

Passavant to Observe Annual Event on Friday, May 11—Picnic Dinner, Program, and Inspection of Institution to Be Principal Features

Although hospitals have existed in one form or another for hundreds of years, until two years ago no one ever thought that it would be a good idea for them to get together with their communities and become better acquainted. The vast majority of the people knew nothing and cared less about hospitals, and the hospitals, running on a 24-hour, 365-day year basis, had too much to do trying to take care of the sick to wonder what the public thought about them. In 1921, however, the National Hospital Day movement originated and that year 1,500 hospitals threw open their doors to their communities, held demonstrations of apparatus, nursing procedures, graduating exercises, and in other ways tried to show the public what they were trying to do. Last year about 3,000 hospitals held programs, and this year about 5,000 will be in the movement.

Passavant Hospital is among the progressive institutions which are preparing an interesting program for May 11, National Hospital Day, and which cordially invite every one to come and see how the sick and funfortunate are cared for.

National Hospital Day is purely a "get acquanitde day." There will be no donations solicited, for Passavant Hospital will feel well rewarded for its efforts if it wins new friends.

In addition to keeping open house during the day, there will be a general inspection by the public, of the hospital and equipment. A picnic dinner will be served at noon, at which the hospital aid society will furnish coffee. After luncheon there will be music, speeches and a general social time.

Arrangements have been made for advance announcement of National Hospital Day from all of the Protestant pulpits in the county.

I. S. D. HIKERS WILL GO TO DAVIS SWITCH

Change Plans for Trip Today on Invitation of Mr. and Mrs. McManus—Boys Will Enjoy Boating, Fishing and Swimming

In Saturday's Journal mention was made of a prospective hike today to the Gravel Springs woods by the main building boys of the School for the Deaf. There has been a change in the program, which was decided upon Saturday afternoon.

Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McManus of Davis Switch, the Main Building boys of the School for the Deaf have been invited to spend the day boating and fishing, and having a general good time. The boys, a hundred and eleven altogether, accompanied by Messrs. Frank Mather, William J. Boston, Harrold T. Downs, supervisors, S. Roby Burns, printer and athletic coach, F. W. Schoneman, teacher, expect to leave the school this morning about 9 o'clock. By noon everybody will have an appetite prepared by the hike, to enjoy the eats, which will consist of egg and wiener sandwiches and fish if any are caught, and from the way the boys have been gathering up their old fishing tackle and digging worms there ought to be some caught. In the afternoon there will be speeches by States Attorney Carl E. Robinson, and an ex-soldier who is at present attending Illinois college. Col. Smith is also expecting to come out some time in the afternoon and will no doubt have something good to tell the boys.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

Funeral services for John Abiquist will be held at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon from the Gillman funeral home.

MISS McLIN BACK FROM PHILIPPINES

Dr. G. T. McLin of the Jacksonville State hospital has received word that his sister, Miss Leona McLin, a former teacher in the Franklin high school, has arrived in Seattle, Wash., on her way home from the Philippine Islands. Miss McLin has been teaching high school subjects in the Philippines for the past three years in a town not far from Manila. She taught her first high school term at Franklin six years ago.

Miss McLin will visit relatives at the McLin home in Fairfield, Ill., and later in the summer expects to come here for a visit with Dr. McLin and family.

NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY AT OUR SAVIOR'S HOSPITAL

The usual observance of national hospital day will take place at Our Savior's hospital Friday, May 11, instead of May 12. The hospital will be open to all visitors from 2 to 5 o'clock. During the evening the pupil nurses will give an entertainment to friends and patrons of the institution. Addresses appropriate to the occasion will be given by prominent men of the city. Every effort is being made to make the day not only interesting but instructive to all.

MORTON AVENUE PAVEMENT OPEN FOR TRAFFIC

Persons traveling east on the hard road will now be able to do so without detouring, as the new strip of pavement connecting Morton avenue with the hard road has been opened to traffic. The work of constructing the new pavement was completed about a month ago but it was not until yesterday afternoon that the barriers were removed. This highway has been closed to traffic since last fall and it will be a great convenience to the public to be able to use the street.
